Five Women Will Be Heard At Hudson in Knaust Strike

Bridge Traffic Is Higher Than '49

Bear Mountain Has Top Percentage; Others Show Gains

March travel over the three Hudson river bridges under the control of the New York State Bridge Authority was 5.46 or 16,309 vehicles greater this year than in 1949, the authority revealed today.

The Bear Mountain Bridge showed the heaviest percentage increase for the three over March 1949 with 5,321 more vehicles or 9.10 per cent, and this was apparently due to winter sports events in that area.

The Rip Van Winkle bridge which for several months led the others in percentage increase last year, last month showed only 294 more vehicles or a percentage boost of .52.

The three bridges carried 315,124 vehicles this year as against 298,815 in 1949, and the totals for the three individually are:

	1950	1949
Rip Van Winkle	57,370	57,676
Mid-Hudson ...	193,966	183,272
Bear Mountain .	63,788	58,467

The increase for the Mid-Hudson bridge was 10,694 vehicles or 5.84 per cent.

February this year showed a decrease over that month in 1949, and this was believed due to the fact that the weather was more severe in this month this year than it was a year ago. The 1950 total for the three bridges was 245,463 as against 247,655 in 1949, a decrease of 2,192 vehicles.

New York Is 'Hot'

New York, April 4 (AP)—Phew! The temperature rose to a sunshiny 72.3 at 11:50 a. m. today—warmest day of 1950. It was, in fact, the highest temperature since last Armistice Day, when 74 was recorded. The mercury was expected to go higher this afternoon. All-time high for the date is 78.9 in 1892. The forecast was for showers tonight and cooler tomorrow.

New Fire Truck Is Now in Operation

The new aerial fire truck for Wiltwyck station, which arrived in the city yesterday, was taken to Central Fire Station today where local firemen were instructed on its operation details.

Herbert Metcalf, engineer for the Peter Pirsch & Sons Company, Kenosha, Wisc., from whom the truck was purchased, instructed the men who will operate it.

The Sanford Fire Equipment Co., of Syracuse, was agent for the company, and the truck now at Wiltwyck station will be turned over to that group, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said.

Equipped with a 65-foot aerial ladder, the truck is slightly shorter than ten one now at the Wiltwyck station. The aerial unit can be operated by one man and it has a full complement of ground ladders.

Other equipment includes lifesaving and rescue equipment and ventilation and salvage tools. It has a 240 horse power motor and is slightly lower than the older truck.

Four Are Charged With Disorderly Conduct, Another With Assault

Hudson, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Five Hudson women arrested on charges arising from the Knaust Brothers mushroom cannery strike here will be given hearings in city court April 12. The date was fixed today.

The five are Ethel Kosa, Ella Maisenbaker, Anne Blaik and Julia Miller, all charged with disorderly conduct, and Nathalie Rockefeller, accused of third degree assault.

The five, arrested last week, have pleaded innocent and are free in bail of $500 each. All except Nathalie Rockefeller have been identified as strikers and are charged with disorderly conduct.

Nathalie Rockefeller has been identified as a working employe. The charge against her was made by Mrs. J. E. Cotter, identified as a striker.

The C.I.O. Textile Workers Union struck against the company on March 10.

Vinson Asks More Money For Aircraft

His Fear Is Red Forces May Pull Own Pearl Harbor When They Get Ready

Planes Are Needed

Both Navy, Air Force Should Build Power, He Declares

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee called on Congress today to vote $583,289,211 for more warplanes to help meet the threat of an "atomic blitz."

Protesting that the administration's $13,911,127,000 military program, "will wither American air power on the vine," Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) urged instead that air strength be boosted promptly.

Vinson said in a speech prepared for House delivery that the President's budget for the fiscal year beginning in July does not assure adequate defense at a time when "the atomic blitz of tomorrow is a real, a genuine possibility." He added:

"It is universally known today that Russia is building the largest air force in the world. What are they building it for? They are building it for use whenever their carefully-timed Pearl Harbor Day comes around."

To Sponsor Amendments

Previously Vinson has said he expects to sponsor several amendments to the bill authorizing military spending for the year beginning next July 1. In his speech, however, he brought up only the proposal for increasing air power.

The pending budget allots $1,300,000,000 for air force procurement and $650,000,000 for new planes for the navy and marines.

Vinson would give the air force an additional $200,000,000 or a total of $1,550,000,000 for new planes, and the navy an increase of $383,289,211 or $1,033,289,211 for the same purpose.

These increases, Vinson said, are needed to maintain an up-to-date 48-group air force and a modern naval air arm.

A House Military Appropriations Subcommittee reported recently that this country now has only from 44 to 46 modern groups. Unless additional money is made available, Vinson said the nation would have only 42 modern groups by 1956. And the present bill, he added, leaves a deficiency in naval aircraft procurement of 1,349 planes.

Veteran of 36 years experience in military legislation in Congress, Vinson ladled out caustic criticism and challenges—and some left-handed praise.

Hits at Johnson

His principal target was Secretary of Defense Johnson.

"The issue is clear cut," Vinson said. "It is whether the Congress will say what kind of defense the nation will have, or whether the creature of the Congress, the secretary of defense, Mr. Louis Johnson, will tell us what kind of defense he will let the Congress have."

Vinson said Johnson deserves commendation for his drive "to squeeze the fat out of public expenditure." But he added that "Mr. Johnson's economy scapel has not only carved away some service fat but has cut—deeply in some areas—into sinew and muscle of the Armed Services.

Red Fliers Reported in Sino Fight

Planes Down Nationalist Aircraft, Technique Attributed to Soviet Airmen

Based at Dairen

Flight Came From Base in South Manchuria, Is Statement

Taipei, Formosa, April 4 (AP)—An air headquarters spokesman today said Russian-built planes which downed two Chinese Nationalist fighters undoubtedly operated by Russians.

The spokesman said the planes "definitely were of Russian manufacture." And, he added: Judging from their technique, "they most certainly were manned by Russians."

The Nationalist fighters were shot down Sunday during a raid on Red shipping in Hangchow Bay south of Shanghai.

That opposition, the first the Nationalists have encountered in the air in four years of civil war, was seen by many today as an ominous forerunner of Communist air attacks on Formosa.

It also led to belief the Reds will have air cover if they attempt an invasion of this Nationalist island.

The air headquarters communique said:

"Two Chinese Air Force Mustangs were surprise attacked by four to five Russian planes on the morning of April 2."

The Nationalist fighters, it said were making low-level strafing runs on Communist junks concentrated near Chapu on Hangchow Bay for an amphibious assault on the Chusan Islands. This island group, about 100 miles southeast of Shanghai, is used by the Nationalists for air and naval bases.

The communique said one of the Nationalist pilots bailed out and returned safely to base.

Given Big Headlines

Taipei newspapers splashed the communique. One carried the headline: "Russian planes openly attack ours."

The communique added:

"According to an accurate intelligence report from the mainland, a large number of Russian planes had arrived at Hsuchow (Suchow), 160 miles north of Nanking.

"The planes were reported to have come from the air base at Dairen, south Manchurian port."

(The Russians have controlled Dairen since the end of World War 2. The Soviet Union and Communist China signed an agreement at Moscow Feb. 14 providing that all properties controlled or leased by the Soviets at Dairen would be turned over to the Chinese this year.).

Insignia Is Repainted

"At Hsuchow their Russian insignia was repainted into Chinese Red insignia with red and white stripes on the tail fins." The communique continued.

"They are participating in combat flights disguised as Chinese Communist airplanes.

"Aside from the main base at Hsuchow, Russian technicians are operating radar stations as well as anti-aircraft emplacements in the Shanghai and Hangchow areas."

Hong Kong dispatches last week quoted trustworthy American business sources as saying Russian planes were on regular patrols over sea lanes to Red ports in north China. These sources also reported Russian garrison and anti-aircraft crews were in Tientsin and Tsingtao.

Connally Predicts No Contempt Vote

Lutzel Murder Trial Will Open April 10

Former Brooklyn Man, 47, Is Charged With Slaying Ruth S. Bergemann, 36, at High Falls in November

The trial of Theodore Lutzel on a first degree murder charge has been set for 10 o'clock Monday morning in Ulster County Court.

Lutzel, 47, a former Brooklyn man who had been rooming at Rosendale, was indicted by the Ulster county grand jury on a murder charge in connection with the alleged shooting of Ruth S. Bergemann, 36, of High Falls on Nov. 27, 1949.

County Judge John M. Cashin in opening the April term of court Monday afternoon set the trial for April 10. The judge said that he made the decision to set the trial on the first day of next week instead of starting it today in order to minimize the possibility that the jury may have to be confined over a week-end. He also indicated that he had a large calendar of civil cases he would like to dispose of this week.

A panel of 100 extra jurors was ordered drawn to report 10 a. m. Monday in case they are needed for the trial.

Attorney John A. Bonomi of Ellenville, counsel for Lutzel, indicated he would be ready to begin trial at any time. District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn said his office will be ready to present the case against Lutzel on Monday.

Suspension Revoked

Also in court Monday afternoon, Judge Cashin revoked the suspension of a one-year sentence of Melvin Conklin, 27, of Accord and ordered Conklin to serve out his term in the county jail. Conklin was given a suspended one-year sentence on charges of unlawful entry and petit larceny and was placed on probation previously, but on February 26 he was taken into custody by the sheriff's office on a charge that he violated his probation by allegedly leaving the jurisdiction and failing to report to the probation officer.

Several sealed indictments handed down by the grand jury were opened in court Monday afternoon and the following persons were arraigned:

Betty Rose Van Vlierden, 22, of 79 Chambers street, charged with burglary third degree and unlawful entry allegedly committed January 8, 1950, entered a plea of innocent through her attorney, Francis Martocci.

Alfred Bell, 18, of 478 Broadway, charged with burglary third degree and unlawful entry allegedly committed November 25, 1949, entered a plea of innocent.

Benjamin Winne and Milton Winne, Jr., of R.D. 4, Kingston, both charged with burglary third degree and unlawful entry allegedly committed February 7, 1950, and on another indictment charging similar crimes allegedly committed June 14, 1949, entered pleas of innocent.

Harry Hornbeck, 31, of Stone Ridge, charged with rape first degree, rape second degree and assault second degree allegedly committed January 26, 1950, entered a plea of innocent through his attorney, Bernard A. Culloton.

Allan Hudson, charged with burglary third degree, unlawful entry and grand larceny first degree allegedly committed December 22, 1949 entered a plea of innocent. N. LeVan Haver is attorney for Hudson and Charles Gaffney appeared in court of counsel.

Vincent J. Stokes, 23, of 61 Cedar street, charged with violation of Section 483-B of the Penal Law, entered a plea of innocent through his attorney, Bernard A. Culloton.

Elmo V. Salmi, 20, of Rifton, charged with violation of Section 483, subdivision 2 of the Penal

Penney Company Robbed of $500 In Cash, Is Report

Management Reveals Theft Took Place March 24; Thief Hid Self in Store

Approximately $500 in cash was stolen on the night of March 24 from the J. C. Penney Company store, 318 Wall street, it was revealed today by Byron S. Chatham, manager.

The cash, contained in money bags, included more than $200 in rolls of quarters, dimes, nickles and pennies, the store manager said. The balance was in bills of $1 and $5 denomination, he said.

Discovery of the theft was made when the store opened for business Saturday morning, March 25. Police were notified and an investigation begun by Detectives Clarence Brophy and William Krum. News of the burglary was not released until today.

Escape from the building was apparently made through a freight chute which opens on the sidewalk on Fair street. Two iron bars had been removed and were found on the basement floor.

As the bars could not have been removed from the outside, authorities believe the thief secreted himself in the store at closing time Friday night.

The money was taken from the mezzanine floor of the store. As far as could be determined, no merchandise in the store had been disturbed.

The identity of the burglar or burglars has not been established.

Rockies Region Hit By Low Temperatures

(By The Associated Press)

A fresh batch of cold air spread over a wide area of the country from the Rockies into central Texas today. There was snow and rain in many parts of the frosty belt.

Temperatures fell far below freezing over most of the Rocky Mountain region and in parts of the northern plains. The cool air also extended over the central and southern plains state, the upper Great Lakes region and the upper Mississippi valley. Lows of 16 above were reported at Cheyenne and Rock Springs, Wyo.

Mild weather continued in the eastern and most of the southern states but the cool air was moving eastward and southward from the Ohio valley.

Tornadoes struck over eastern Oklahoma and western Arkansas yesterday. Hail and windstorms were reported in parts of Missouri and western Illinois.

Governor Signs Bills to Hit Sharply at Relief Chiselers

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Sharper crack downs on relief chiselers and stiffer penalties for persons illegally possessing large quantities of narcotics were required today under new state laws.

Governor Dewey has signed bills that:

1—Compel welfare officials to call in the district attorney if they have "reason to believe" that any person has obtained or tried to obtain relief fraudulently.

2—Make it a felony, rather than a misdemeanor, to possess narcotics illegally with intent to sell.

Previously, welfare officials had the discretionary power to decide whether to press prosecution of alleged welfare chiselers.

The new amendment requires that whenever a welfare official believes any person has violated the law on eligibility requirements, the official "shall refer the facts and evidence available to him" to the prosecutor.

The requirement becomes effective July 1.

The bill was one of several that the sponsor, Republican Senator Henry A. Wise of Watertown, said were aimed at "unscrupulous" welfare applicants.

District Attorney Frank C. Hogan of New York county urged Governor Dewey to sign the bill making a maximum 10-year sentence possible for illegal possession of narcotics with intent to sell.

He wrote the governor that "under the present law, the sale of one ounce of narcotics is a

Sea Mystery

Theodore Donay, Detroit, Mich., importer who served 6½ years in a Federal prison for aiding an escaped Nazi prisoner of war, disappeared from a rented motorboat 150 miles from where a mysterious submarine was reported sighted. Naval officials refused to link the two events, which happened off the Pacific coast. (NEA Telephoto)

Donay Is Listed As Possible Suicide By Pacific Police

Authorities Have Nothing to Tie Disappearance to Sighting of Submarine

Los Angeles, April 4 (AP)—The sheriff's office today listed the puzzling disappearance of a convicted wartime traitor as a possible suicide.

Theodore Donay, 51, a Detroit importer who served more than six years in prison for failing to reveal the whereabouts of an escaped Nazi flier, vanished Saturday from Catalina Island.

His disappearance took a dramatic twist as it coincided with the sighting of a mysterious submarine in southern California coastal waters.

However, authorities said they had no concrete evidence by which to tie the two events together. Found at sea Sunday was the 18-foot motorboat the German-born Donay had rented from an Avalon dock. The boat was empty save a suitcase full of clothing.

Sheriff's Capt. Garner Brown yesterday released a note found in Donay's Avalon hotel room. Brown said it indicated suicide. It read in part:

"I am living under the constant fear of deportation through the Detroit immigration authorities. * * *the outlook for my future is a very dark one. * * * goodbye my good friends and thank you so very much for all the good things you did to me. Theodore Donay."

Navy Not Upset By Any Submarine

Other Ships Have Right to Operate Outside 3-mile Limit

San Francisco, April 4 (AP)—The navy says foreign submarines "very probably" have been operating off the California coast.

A four-day search by surface and air craft produced only "inconclusive" results. But there wasn't much that could have been done about it since the strange submarines were in international waters.

Capt. J. A. Holbrook, commander of the Destroyer Colahan, returned yesterday from the search and reported having made contact twice through radar and sonar with objects he believed were submarines. Captain Holbrook is a former submarine officer.

After evaluating the captain's report, Rear Admiral R. I. Entwistle, vice commander of the western sea frontier, said the contacts made "very probably * * * were one or more foreign submarines on routine peacetime patrols."

At no time during the search was any submarine sighted, either by surface craft or from the air.

Although investigation of several reports of submarines having been sighted is continuing, the

Lattimore Will Give His Reply

Brewster Says Senate May Be Put on Spot of Backing Down on Vote

Jessup Is Heard

Accused Man Adds to Previous Denials of Guilt

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The Senate Communist investigation headed for a possible stalemate today. Senator Connally (D.-Tex.) predicted the Senate won't vote contempt citations for officials refusing access to secret loyalty files.

A Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee investigating charges by Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) that the State Department is harboring Communists and is being influenced by Soviet spies, seemed balked at every turn.

It faced the necessity of obtaining a contempt citation—which Connally told reporters it stands little chance of getting—to reverse President Truman's decision against opening the confidential files.

Without much hope of success, it sought means of forcing McCarthy to make available six documents he turned over to the F.B.I. in connection with his charges that Owen Lattimore, writer on Far Eastern affairs, is a Soviet agent in the State Department.

Hearing for Lattimore

The subcommittee will give Lattimore, who already has called McCarthy's charges an "unmitigated lie," a chance to answer them formally in a hearing Thursday.

Connally said he doesn't believe the subcommittee, the full committee, which he heads, or the Senate will vote to cite for contempt Secretary of State Acheson, Attorney General McGrath or Harry Mitchell, head of the Civil Service Commission.

The three officials were instructed by President Truman not to let the subcommittee, headed by Senator Tydings (D.-Md.), look at secret loyalty records.

Will Be Backing Down

Senator Brewster (R.-Me.) said that if no contempt proceedings are ordered, the Senate will be in the position of "backing down" on its vote to clothe the committee with subpoena powers to get the files.

Tydings called the subcommittee together to consider not only that problem but McCarthy's refusal to make his Lattimore case documents available.

One of the persons mentioned by McCarthy, Ambassador at Large Philip Jessup, added yesterday to his previous denials of what the senator has had to say.

Jessup said it was a "misstatement of fact" for McCarthy to have said that Jessup was in charge of the American Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations when the organization received donations described by the senator as Communist in origin.

McCarthy had demanded that Jessup explain the acceptance of $3,500 donations in 1942 and 1943 from Frederick Vanderbilt Field, whom he called a Communist. Jessup said the chairman of the council in those years was Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California. Jessup said the men of the council "would never have accepted payments from Mr. Field or anyone for 'selling the Communist party line.' Neither would I, if I had been in control."

Proposal Rejected

With the subcommittee's inquiry courses seemingly blocked, administration leaders turned thumbs down on a proposal by Senator Lodge (R.-Mass.) to

Howell Selects Lakewood Site for His Headquarters

New York, April 4 (AP)—New York city's "rainmaker" possibly will try to pour some rain into the city's depleted reservoir system tomorrow

Dr. Wallace E Howell, $100-a-day meteorological consultant, announced he had selected Lakewood as his base of operations He added that there was "a good possibility" that he would try to make it rain near there early tomorrow

Howell made the announcement after Water Commissioner Stephen J. Carney told him to "go ahead whenever you are ready."

Meanwhile, Chief Water Engineer Edward J Clark said the city reservoirs, long at the lowest level in their history, now are at 67.5 per cent of capacity A year ago they were 94.1 per cent filled

Howell said he had selected the caddy house on a golf course at Lakewood, which is about four miles south of the village of Roscoe and about 127 miles from New York city, as his headquarters

He said that negotiations for the site are being conducted with operators of Wolff's Lake Florence cabins resort, which includes the golf course.

Has 2,300-Foot Elevation

The site is at an elevation of about 2,300 feet with "an excellent outlook in all directions, particularly toward the Catskills," Howell said.

It will provide a 50-mile sweep by radar covering the watershed area and a location free of "ground clutters," which might disturb the radar screen

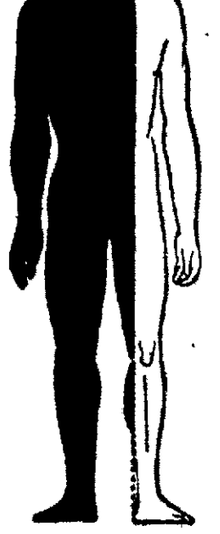

Howell said the city would lease the small caddy house and renovate it by the construction of a 20-foot tower in which the radar set would be mounted

An operations room will also be located in the caddy house, staffed by a meteorologist, radar operator and radar technician. Howell said he probably would need another site for office and laboratory space, but added this probably would be available in a building offered free of charge to the city near Pennanah Lake.

ARTHRITIS
pain relieved in 61%
of cases after one application

Working with a group of patients, physicians found that a single application of new Sloan's Balm relieved painful symptoms in the following amazing percentage of cases: Arthritis (rheumatic) pains 61%, bursitis pains 63%, muscular aches 60%, neuralgic pains 92%, sprains 100%, backaches 51% ... average of foregoing cases 64%

Sloan's Balm is different from anything else. It induces "intra-muscular warmth" deep down in the tissues, evidence of an increased flow of blood, which hastens removal of waste matter and helps nourish tissues This effect lasts for hours and extends at least an inch below the surface—in most cases down to the region where the pain is In scientific tests Sloan's Balm proved itself up to 2½ times as effective as other remedies tested, in creating comforting warmth in tissues No wonder it brings new relief. So, whatever else you take for rheumatic pains or muscular aches, also use Sloan's Balm—to increase circulation of health-giving blood in the painful area. Banned in Italy's Schools

Rome (AP) — World War 2? What's that? Officially, Italy's postwar high school graduates have never heard of it. Nor, in the classroom, have they ever heard of Benito Mussolini. For the past five years, in Italy's grammar schools and high schools, history has stopped in 1918. Allied Military Government first placed a ban on secondary school teaching of Fascist history and the events leading up to the war. The occupation authorities wanted to avoid "classroom controversies." They ordered references to Mussolini and fascism edited out of textbooks, sometimes with the rough expedient of paper and paste. The ban has never been revoked, although allied military rule ended with the peace treaty in 1947. An Education Ministry commission has been studying the problem of objective presentation in the classroom of the controversial fascist era, but a spokesman said he does not know when they will finish the job.

Court of Appeals Hears Arguments For Two Slayers

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—The Court of Appeals today heard additional argument at 2 p. m. against the attempt of two convicted "Lonely Hearts" killers to escape Sing Sing's electric chair.

Philip Huntington, assistant district attorney of Nassau county, was scheduled to resume presentation of his opposition to appeals by Raymond Fernandez and his girl friend, Mrs. Martha Beck.

Fernandez, 34, and Mrs. Beck, 29, were convicted last August on charges of first degree murder in the slaying of Mrs. Janet Fay of Albany.

They were accused of killing the 66-year-old widow in an apartment at Valley Stream, L. I., in January, 1949. They had met Mrs. Fay through a "Lonely Hearts" correspondence club.

Huntington urged yesterday that the convictions be upheld. He maintained that evidence at the trial established "beyond any reasonable doubt" that the defendants killed Mrs. Fay. He also said the confessions "were properly found to be voluntary."

Counsel for Fernandez and Mrs. Beck argued before the state's highest court that the couple had not received a fair trial and that the convictions should be reversed.

John H. Minton appeared for Fernandez and Herbert E. Rosenberg argued on behalf of Mrs. Beck.

Represented Both

Rosenberg represented both defendants in their State Supreme Court trial before Justice Ferdinand Pecora in the Bronx.

Minton argued that the trial court was in error in assigning Rosenberg, "the employed counsel of defendant Beck," to represent Fernandez also.

Minton claimed that "no inquiry seems to have been made by the trial judge with respect to the possibility that the defendants' interests and their defenses might be inconsistent" or that "the same attorney might necessarily be required to take an adverse position to one of his clients in the conduct of the trial."

Rosenberg said he did not think it was up to him to say whether there were conflicting interests between the defendants. He maintained "the record will show that both defendants were satisfied with my services."

Minton said Rosenberg should have asked separate trials, but failed to do so.

Rosenberg termed "prejudicial" the court's rejection of 32 prospective jurors "solely by reason of their opposition to capital punishment."

'Calculated to Ridicule'

The attorney also contended that Fernandez and Mrs. Beck had been deprived of a "fair and impartial" trial because of comments and questions by the court. He said the remarks were "calculated to ridicule the defendants."

Both Minton and Rosenberg argued that confessions of the pair had been obtained under pressure and promises.

Minton claimed the court had failed to instruct the jury adequately with respect to Fernandez' contention that his confession "was induced by promises of immunity made to him by the prosecuting authorities of Michigan and New York."

Fernandez and Mrs. Beck were arrested in Michigan, where they were charged with the slayings of Mrs. Delphine Downing, 24-year-old widow, and her infant daughter, Rainelle.

The pair was brought to New York for trial because life imprisonment is Michigan's severest penalty.

The prosecution contended the three slayings resulted from a scheme to swindle lonely women through mail romances.

Mrs. Beck and Fernandez are in Sing Sing prison. They originally were sentenced to die in the electric chair the week of Oct. 10, 1949, but execution was delayed pending the mandatory appeal.

Barmaids Are Picketed

New York, April 4 (AP) — An A.F.L. Bartenders' Union is picketing an Eighth avenue bar and grill because it uses women bartenders. The barmaids, in a sign hung in the window, protested: "Being females they will not accept us in the union." "We never will if we can help it," said a Bartenders Union spokesman. "We don't discriminate against women; but we kpow it is not healthy for a woman to be behind the bar."

Permits Are Needed For Souvenir Weapon

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Veterans still need permits to possess "souvenir" firearms brought home from the war.

Governor Dewey today vetoed a bill that would have eliminated the required permit if the weapon were "rendered harmless and useless" by local police.

Dewey said in a memorandum accompanying the veto:

"Because of many evasions possible under the language of this proposed amendment (to the penal law) the possible misuse of such weapons and the administrative difficulties involved, disapproval has been requested by the mayor of the city of New York, the superintendent of the state police and the State Association of Chiefs of Police."

Hijackers Kill Man for $2,200

Chappaqua, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Roadside hijackers shot and killed the driver of a Reader's Digest truck yesterday and got away with a $2,200 cash cargo that was being taken to a bank.

Four bandits used a trick to halt the panel delivery truck, which was en route to Pleasantville, with a load of mail, cash and checks.

As the truck moved along a private road of the publishing firm, approaching a main highway, two men staggered in front of it, pretending to need help.

The truck stopped. The men drew pistols. One of them fired through the glass window of the truck cab, fatally hitting Andrew Petrini, 33, of Mt. Kisco, in the eye.

The gunmen, joined by a third from the roadside, bound the dying driver, and his helper, William Waterbury, of Pleasantville.

Both were shoved into the back of the truck. One of the bandits then drove the truck slowly toward Pleasantville, while his companions rifled through the mail bags and bank pouches. A fourth bandit followed in another truck.

Both trucks turned off onto a dirt road where the bandits abandoned the magazine's truck and fled in the other vehicle.

Waterbury freed himself, and summoned aid from a nearby house. Petrini died later in a hospital.

The publishing firm, which recently moved to its new quarters in Chappaqua from Pleasantville, said the bandits also got some $35,000 in unendorsed checks. These, the firm said, would be of no value to the holdup men.

The getaway truck used by the bandits was found abandoned later about three miles from the holdup scene.

Nearly Kills Caster

Compton, Calif. (AP) — Ernest Loscar nearly lost his life in a freak accident that occurred while he was reeling in a fish line. He had cast his line with a lead sinker on the end into the ocean. The sinker caught on some rocks. Loscar pulled hard —then harder. Suddenly the sinker let go, snapped back and hit him in the thigh, severing an artery. A friend took him by auto to a hospital 25 miles away. Loscar was in serious condition from loss of blood on arrival, but responded to treatment.

ECONOMIC POLICY MUDDLED

Economic policy in Washington is curiously muddled. There's a big hue and cry these days for higher productivity to support a growing population at a rising living standard. But at the same time government is effectively blocking some of the most desirable results of great efficiency on farms and in factories.

The doings of the Agriculture Department afford the most striking example. In one set of buildings men are finding out how to enrich and preserve soils and step up crop yields. Their goal is more food and fiber at less cost in men and money.

If their discoveries are to be translated into better living, they obviously must be passed on to consumers through lower farm prices.

But elsewhere in the department the emphasis is on restricting output and keeping prices up. Thousands of farmers get federal money for not producing. And the huge support-price program is a stubborn roadblock checking any downward push of prices in response to increased efficiency.

Protecting farmers against the hardship that follows from glutted markets and tumbling prices is surely a wise and necessary objective. But we must find a way to do it that will not penalize consumers and reward grossly inefficient producers.

The Brannan plan aims at one part of this dilemma, for it would allow farm prices to seek their own level in an open market. Yet it would still safeguard the inefficient—at evident cost in taxes to the very consumers supposed to benefit from lower prices. It would do this by paying farmers the difference between market prices and the "support" level.

The truth is, inefficient marginal producers aren't entitled to such protection. They are the necessary casualties of technical progress. To insist on keeping them in business at the taxpayers' expense is to misunderstand the whole purpose of a sound economy.

These producers do deserve some sort of aid to ease the pain of their transition to another field. It is not their fault that a government scientist may have discovered a better way to raise corn which suddenly makes their farms too costly to run in competition with others.

Still, the mere fact that a man decides to undertake farming as a business shouldn't mean a government guarantee of profitable operation regardless of his possible inefficiency. It's a weird kind of welfare program that seeks to cushion every producer against failure.

Some men in Congress are showing signs of applying this same odd reasoning to the coal industry, which is expected to be troubled soon again with overproduction. We hear talk of producer quotas, controlled output and the like. To the obvious end of keeping afloat all the present producers, marginal and otherwise.

Where is the advantage of technical progress to the average consumer if he must pay in taxes or artificially supported prices for outmoded, inefficient production methods?

PURGING THE LANGUAGE

Russia is now going to remove foreign words from its vocabulary. The Russian language has always had a good many such. Some are scientific, others such common words as "theory", "history" and "democracy". All these are to be replaced by new terms compounded from existing Russian words.

The Germans did this some years ago, though many foreign terms escaped the purge. Such examples of national pride in themselves are perhaps harmless. This is more than can be said of other recent Russian attempts at suppression on non-Communist ideas.

The Lucy Stoners are showing new life. This is a league of women who twenty or thirty years ago were campaigning to eliminate the title "Mrs." from the American vocabulary. Some of them want to get the campaign going again. The idea is that all women would be titled "Miss", regardless of marital involvements, and the maiden name would be retained through all vicissitudes. Both the idea and the name of the league come from Lucy Stone (Mrs. Henry Blackwell to her husband), noted woman suffragist of the nineteenth century.

A business which has high hopes for the future is fortune telling.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

DETERMINING CONFIDENCE

A propaganda has been started and is gaining some momentum that the charges against Dean Acheson, Philip Jessup, Owen Lattimore, and the Communists and homosexuals in the State Department should be hushed because they undermine confidence in our public officials and make representation abroad difficult.

The propaganda is based upon a truth. Public confidence in the State Department has been shattered for many years. Long before Senator McCarthy made his charges, all but the most ardent supporters of the State Department, and particularly those who support British policy in the United States, wondered what has been going on in that department. The Alger Hiss case, which President Truman called a "Red Herring," heightened the astonishment of a nation; the disclosure of the homosexual clique climaxed an unfortunate situation. The refusal to provide the Senate with such information as it is entitled to have if it is to legislate adequately, sure challenges credulity.

To continue to be silent in the face not of charges, but of disclosures, already establishing scandal, is to serve America badly. In these times, there is always an emergency and a crisis and an international conference. In fact, it was because of these and the war and the plea for unity that we now find ourselves in such a disgraceful situation, involving shameful accusations and no defense.

There must come a time of housecleaning, and that time might as well be now as ever. The trick of finding an obscure Republican ex-senator, a one-termer, who often voted against his own party, to serve with the State Department in international conferences, does not re-establish a Bipartisan Foreign Policy. Even were a Republican more prominent than John Sherman Cooper appointed, it would not re-establish the Bipartisan Foreign Policy.

That political apparatus was wrecked on the island of Formosa and it cannot be restored as long as the present top personnel remains in the State Department. Actually, among the rank and file of the Republicans, any party leader who associates with Dean Acheson's entourage attracts suspicion to himself. Does he, too, belong to the queer clique? It is unfortunate that it should be so, but the State Department created its own atmosphere.

In any other administration, men involved in such scandals would resign. This too is a new phenomenon, namely, that these officials feel that they have a vested interest in their job, and the White House supports the view that once a person is appointed to public office he is sacrosanct. Naturally, any such conception is false and even impossible. It is a reflex to inferiority, coming down from the top. Only those who feel themselves inferior demand such recognition.

When Mr. Hoover was President of the United States, it was found that a young man in the State Department made free with its documents. He was dismissed, and devoted the ensuing years to smearing Mr. Hoover. The Yardley Law was passed because State Department data found their way out of the Department. Certainly Mr. Hoover could not be accused of harboring document thieves, but when he found them, he threw them out. That is the point: Bad appointments might be made; or good men might fall for temptation. What needs to be done is to throw them out whenever they are discovered.

When such men are protected, the protector, to whom they must be abhorrent, must have some ulterior motive. Certainly, Harry Truman cannot like either Communists or homosexuals. Why does he protect them? Why does he fight for them?

The answer is in the record. During the New Deal and the war years, when the personnel of government was rapidly expanded, men and women were taken in on their specialized abilities. The F.B.I. and the Civil Service made checks, but often they were made after the person was actually at work. Those who found the atmosphere uncomfortable in one organ of government, found a better berth elsewhere. The checks never caught up with the worst of them.

Further, disloyalty involves a legally proved overt act, which makes any safeguards in advance almost impossible. Meanwhile, the subversive or doubtful wins a berth, does his work, and establishes a vested interest, which the President defends.

That is where the trouble lies: In the President's protection of the vested interest of anybody on the public payroll.

CANCER OF THE LARYNX

A patient who had moved to a distant city returned on business to his home city and called up his old physician. As his voice was husky, the physician asked him if he had a cold. He replied that he had no cold but his voice had been husky for several weeks following a slight cold. The physician, to save time, arranged an appointment with a throat specialist for the same afternoon. The throat specialist discovered that the hoarseness was due to cancer of the larynx.

The patient was given a letter to his own physician in his home city and was put under treatment immediately on his return home.

In "The Handbook of Cancer," published by the Canadian Medical Association, we read that "the only early symptoms of cancer of the larynx or vocal cords is persistent hoarseness." (Tuberculosis or syphilis may also cause hoarseness.) Something interferes with the movements of the vocal cords so that they lag or are slow in their movements.

"Any patient in the cancer age who has unexplained hoarseness for over three weeks should have a thorough laryngeal examination. If this examination proves negative and the hoarseness continues he should have a second examination."

Generally, tuberculosis is found in the back half of the larynx and cancer in the front half.

While persistent hoarseness is the only early symptoms of cancer of the larynx, harmless polypi also cause hoarseness and are usually removed by radium, or X-ray. The fact that these plyps and also warty growths occur most often in the front half of the larynx makes it necessary to have a small section of these innocent growths examined under the microscope so that no time is lost in making the diagnosis. If these benign growths return after having been once removed in adults, they should be treated as if they really were cancer.

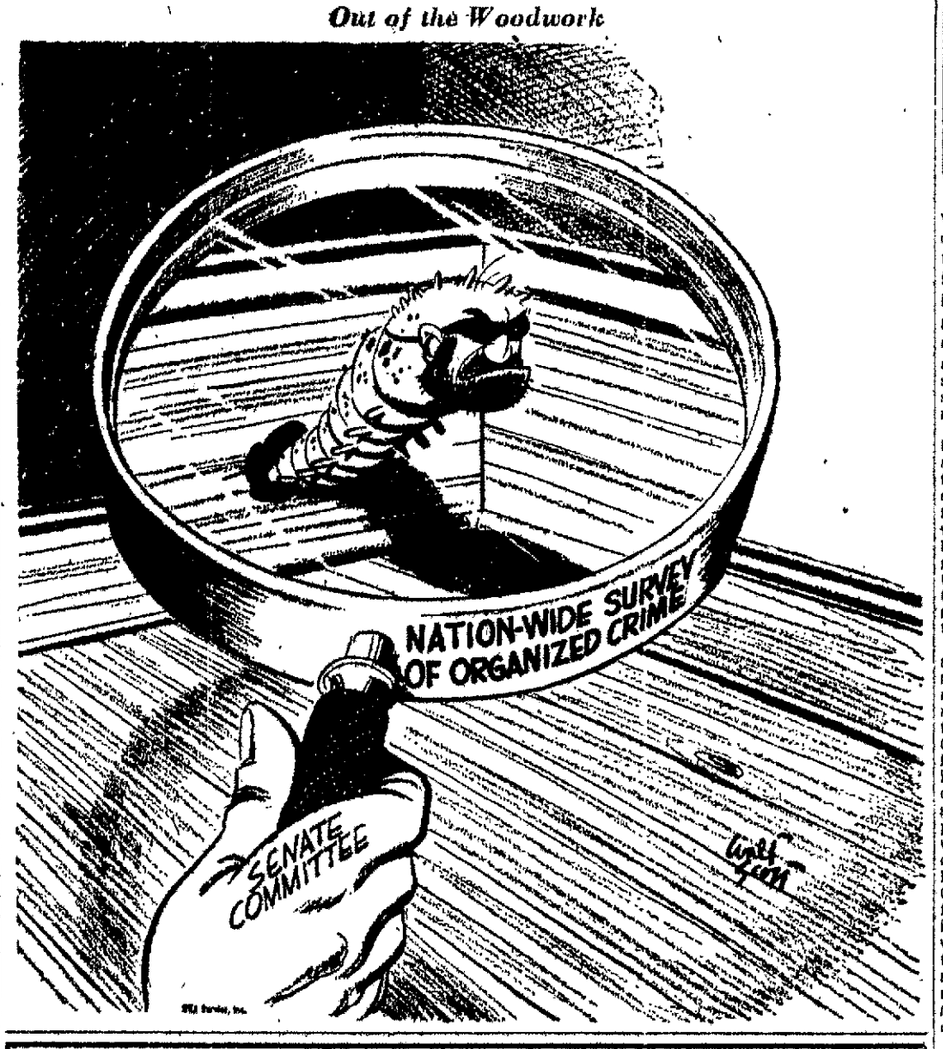

Remember, persistent hoarseness in a cancer-age patient should be considered cancer until proven otherwise.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—When it comes to turning over loyalty files to the Senate, the Republicans are up against the fact that William Howard Taft, father of their top leader, sided against them and with Harry Truman. So did six other presidents of the United States and a House judiciary committee.

President George Washington was the first to say flatly "no" in 1796 when he refused to give the House a copy of instructions to U. S. diplomats who had negotiated a treaty with Great Britain. George Washington said: "As it is essential to the due administration of the government that the boundaries fixed by the constitution should be preserved, a just regard to the constitution and to the duty of my office forbids a compliance with your request."

President Thomas Jefferson continued the precedent by refusing to allow two cabinet members to supply documents at the Aaron Burr trial. President James Monroe also declined to give up papers about the conduct of naval officers, while Andrew Jackson was ordered by the Senate to supply a memo read by him to his cabinet on removal of public money from the Bank of the United States. He refused.

Later President Grover Cleveland backed up his attorney general who would not give the Senate documents on the removal of a district attorney.

President John Tyler even sent a message to Congress spelling out his reasons for refusing to give War Department reports on Cherokee Indians to the House of Representatives.

Senator Taft's father spelled out the issue quite clearly, though it was after he left the White House. "The President," he said, "is required by the Constitution from time to time to give Congress information on the state of the union. But this does not enable Congress or either House to elicit from him confidential information which he has acquired for the purpose of enabling him to discharge his constitutional duties, if he does not deem the disclosure of such information prudent or in the public interest."

In 1879 the House Judiciary Committee even rebuked an investigating committee for trying to pry out State Department records regarding the conduct of George F. Seward, a consul-general in China.

"Under our theory of government," the judiciary committee ruled, "all the records of the executive departments are under the control of the President. Whenever the President has returned (as sometimes he has) that in his judgment it was not consistent with the public interest to give the House such information, no further proceedings have ever been taken to compel the production of such information. Indeed, upon principle, it would seem this must be so. The mischief of the House calling for documents might easily be a very great one."

Blocking Asiatic Communism

This column recently secured a copy of a letter written to Prime Minister Nehru of India by the living Buddha of western Mongolia, now a refugee in Baltimore living under the wing of Owen Lattimore, the Johns Hopkins professor whom Senator McCarthy has charged with being the top Communist spy in the United States.

India has long been considered by the United States as the key country in blocking the spread of Communism, which is one reason we give Prime Minister Nehru the royal-carpet treatment on his visit here last fall. The living Buddha seems to have similar views. Anyway here is the letter sent to Nehru by the man whom "top Communist spy" Lattimore brought to the U.S.A.:

"The teachings of Communism expounded and propagated by Lenin, have spread widely and now prevail over more than four-fifth of China," the living Buddha wrote. "The remaining one-fifth is about to encounter danger, and the terror of Communism seems to be approaching near to Tibet. The road is difficult for a military offensive against Tibet, yet if they were able to win the mind of Tibet, they would with small numbers be able to dominate large numbers. . . . I pray earnestly that your honor, with your vast understanding, will protect Tibet and show that country and teach it how to proceed and to understand.

"Mongolia and Tibet are alike in religious faith," the living Buddha continued. "Moreover, the fundamental policy of Communism is not to make use of any religion, but wherever its teachings may reach, to extinguish immediately the religion of that land. In outer and inner Mongolia now, religion is vanishing altogether.

"If Mongols fleeing from Red terror should reach your honored country of India, I pray with profound faith that they may be aided and protected."

Battle Over Gas

Usually fair-minded Speaker Sam Rayburn revived memories of whip-cracking Uncle Joe Cannon, by his haste to get House approval of the Kerr bill boosting natural gas prices.

Rayburn had colleagues dizzy with his deft backstage maneuvers to speed a Senate version of the bill through the House.

However, Congressmen Ray Madden of Indiana and John McSweeney of Ohio of the Rules Committee furiously objected to the "star-chamber" proceedings and the fact that Rayburn arranged the Rules meeting on sudden notice while Liberal Chairman Adolph Sabath was out of town.

The speaker, whose Texas gas friends are clamoring for action, wouldn't even agree to delay the meeting for a day, to enable Chairman Sabath to return to Washington. So the Rules Committee meeting was called to order by Dixiecrat Acting Chairman Gene Cox of Georgia, poker-playing partner of the speaker, which caused Madden to remark:

"If I didn't see the sun outside, I'd think this meeting was being held in the dead of night. I just learned accidentally about ten minutes ago that we were to be called into session.

"Why all the secrecy?" continued the Indiana Democrat. "And why hasn't the chairman been notified? He'd be here if he was given proper notice that this bill was to be considered. I object to this unorthodox procedure."

When Cox explained that he had called the meeting "at the instance of the leadership," Madden fired back:

"Well, I'm still objecting to further procedure. Here's a bill that has been widely publicized as a measure that will take 100 million dollars out of the pockets of consumers. We ought to have more chance to study it."

In the showdown vote all the committee Republicans and all the Democrats, except Madden and McSweeney, supported Rayburn and the natural-gas interests. It was a golden opportunity for Clarence Brown of Ohio and the other committee Republicans to show a little independence—and also put their party on record as for the consumer in the coming campaign. But as usual they tagged behind the Dixiecrats.

Immunity From Damage Suits for Congressmen Protects Public Interest of Nation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 4—Persons who sneer at the immunity from damage suits which is permitted to senators and representatives for what they say in the proceedings of Congress—and there is a good deal of such sneering nowadays—just don't realize that they are striking at perhaps the strongest safeguard in the whole system of constitutional government in the United States.

If members of Congress were to be subject to lawsuits for libel and slander because of their efforts to protect the public interest, corruption and bribery would flourish and the people's business would be transacted by those who had the most money and the biggest capacity for evil. Merely to threaten a suit for damages would then silence the members of Congress and squelch all investigations.

It is easy enough for the average observer to characterize a member of Congress who makes an attack on the floor of Congress as a "coward" unless he repeats the same statement outside of Congress where he can be sued for damages. One of the favorite methods of some persons under attack is to threaten lawsuits as a piece of defensive publicity. Often they know too well the challenge cannot be accepted, for who would pay the legal expenses of members of Congress if they were diverted from their public duties to engage in private lawsuits with citizens whose activities were under question? The attacks in congressional hearings do not originate as a rule in personal malice at all but are incidental to the legislators' criticism of public policy.

If there were no congressional immunities, it would be a very simple thing for large corporations and well-financed individuals to threaten suits for libel or slander against members of Congress and keep the public from knowing the truth about activities that vitally concern their government.

Sometimes, of course, this constitutional privilege is abused, and sometimes also innocent persons are injured. The correctives of public opinion and the right of other members of Congress to denounce the accusers and get publicity for such replies and rebuttals will in the long run offset unfounded attacks and unproven charges. But to say that there must be no disclosures because the names of some innocent persons may be mentioned is like telling the air force in wartime that they must not drop bombs on any military installations because some non-combatants may be hurt.

To the group in Congress which has been fighting against Communists and subversive organizations, the fact that Karl Fuchs was permitted to know atomic-energy secrets and pass them to Russia under the very eyes of the American government is a tragedy of Communist infiltration which cannot be dismissed lightly. Nor is it to be forgotten that the House Un-American Activities Committee for years has cried out about Communists in government, from the days of Representative Martin Dies of Texas, Democrat, its first chairman, and still is crying out against them, but the executive branch of the government has had to be prodded to get rid of Communists. The House committee has a small staff of investigators and nothing like the F.B.I.'s thousands of detectives and millions of dollars in funds. It is a fact, however, that the F.B.I.'s evidence can be suppressed and never be presented to a jury and prosecutions not be ordered by the administration for political reasons if it so desires. Alger Hiss was not brought under attack and prosecuted until the House committee got after him.

Painful as are the results of Congressional investigations to individuals affected, they accomplish in the main what the press or private individuals cannot do without becoming involved in expensive litigation and other obstructive measures calculated as diversionary efforts to defeat the cause of justice. Congressional immunity is one of the wisest provisions the founding fathers put into the constitution.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The question is not so much "Will you come to whiskey at our place?" as "Will you ever go home, or, anyhow, go away, and, if so, when?" We would like to have a rough idea because these things have been running into extra innings of late.

We would also like to know whether you have any capricious notions about beverages such as bloody Marys and black velvet because we all are just plain, God-fearing, 'tater-hoein', whiskey-drinkin', blue-jean Americans and if old fungus or old stepfather ain't good enough for you, well, stranger, we will bid you pass us by.

The way some folks been carrying on around here since lately you got to be pharmaceutical to fix them a dram, what with the call for a dash of witch-hazel to neutralize the vodka and amphojel to cauterize the ulcers.

Yes, we will stake you to a martini if you are crazy enough to go against that devil's brew but if you think we are going to sneak Hilda out the back way and down to the store to get you imported gin you are crazy.

Where did you get your taste for imported gin? I remember when you whipped up your own in the kitchenette and it took the enamel off the sink and ate a hole through your rubber gloves, but now you can't abide juniper water without it comes from the Old World and they's a picture of London Bridge on the label and the product has a jaundiced look.

Old Bath-Tub, that's what we serve. A fine, honest, nutritious gin. We grew up on it.

Look at the war generations of Americans, the magnificent men who fought the bloody-handed Hun and Jap, and the gallant, clear-eyed lassies who went to the brink of battle with them, for your testimonial to the health-giving, character-molding qualities of Old Bath-Tub, the all-American gin. They were weaned on it. Their mothers made Bath-Tub long after American mothers had quit messing around with bread, and the Burns, themselves, learned to sip and sample at the apron strings and remark, wisely, "Mama, a couple more drops of juniper."

This is not going to be a cocktail party, that we are giving. We'll

Q—When was the International Date Line established?

A—In 1884, the International Meridian Conference, held at Washington, D. C., established the meridian passing through Greenwich, England, as the prime meridian from which time was to be counted. The 180th meridian, because it is midway around the earth, became the logical selection for a Date Line. The line deviates somewhat to include islands of the same group in the time zone having the same date.

Dewey approved the measure yesterday without comment He released Hogan's memorandum, the bill was sponsored by Senator MacNeil Mitchell, New York city Republican

THE EASTER STORY — The Last Supper — Drawn by John J. Sunley

That evening Jesus and His twelve disciples sat down to the Passover feast. It was their Last Supper. Jesus said that one of them had betrayed Him. The eleven innocent apostles were shocked, and wondered who among them bore the guilt. And Judas that betrayed him, answering, said: Is it I, Rabbi? He saith to him: Thou hast said it. (Matt 26:25)

After supper, Jesus and the disciples went to the Mount of Olives, where, in the garden of Gethsemane, Jesus prayed three times, while His disciples slept. Rise, let us go, behold he is at hand that will betray me. (Matt. 26:46)

It was Judas. Behind him were soldiers of the high priests Judas made the agreed sign. And forthwith coming to Jesus, he said. Hail, Rabbi And he kissed him. (Matt. 26:49)

Former Rifton Man to End 30-Year Navy Career in Fall

Lt Stuart S Northrop, a native of Rifton, who serves on the staff of an amphibious training unit, Pacific Fleet, plans to retire from the U. S Navy in October after 30 years of service, according to a recent article, "Who's Who in the Force," in The Amphibian, a service periodical

The article revealed that Lt. Northrop during his long service in the navy had served as catcher on the All-Navy Baseball team that defeated John McGraw's pennant-winning Giants in 1923, and in 1928 he was selected as the deep sea diver to inspect the engine room of a foreign ship which had been sunk off the Virgin Islands under suspicious circumstances.

Evidence of scuttling was found, the article said when Lt Northrop went down 130 feet and entered the ship's engine room.

Another outstanding accomplishment stressed was that of 1945 when Lt. Northrop, as commanding officer of the USS ATA 208, towed the ARD-1 from Guam to Charleston, S C, over a 9,000-mile course Attended K.H.S.

Born in Rifton in 1908, he attended high school in Kingston and entered the navy within five months of his graduation. He first saw duty on the USS Florida. Next he went to submarine school at New London, Conn, spent six years of his service mostly on submarines and during this time he qualified as a deep sea diver

Advanced to the rate of quartermaster, first class, he participated in the Second Nicaraguan Campaign. After various other duties, he went ashore as a chief quartermaster in recruiting duty and this was followed by service on destroyers.

During World War 2 he served on the USS Washington as boatswain, was promoted to Chief Boatswain in 1942 and then was transferred to the USS. Vireo as navigator and first lieutenant.

During his tour of duty on that ship, he advanced to lieutenant and as commanding officer participated in the Solomons and New Guinea campaigns.

Married to the former Nathalie Rascovar of Woodhaven, N. Y., they have two sons, John, 18, and Donald, 15, and their home is in Redlands, Calif He won many decorations during his long service and among them the victory medals of both World Wars and the Asiatic Occupation medal.

General Staff Organized

Berlin, April 4 (AP)—The western powers in Berlin have organized an allied general staff to spring into action in any emergency. This was disclosed in an interview today by Maj. Gen Maxwell D. Taylor, U. S commandant in the divided city. In some respects the new American-British-French staff resembles wartime SHAEF — Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Force. There is no overall commander but the post is reserved for such appointment in the event of genuine aggression.

Elsworth Upholds State Comptroller

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth of the State Supreme Court has decided there is no constitutional ban against the state comptroller serving on the State Board of Equalization and Assessment

Elsworth said yesterday that the board was a legally constituted authority.

The 1949 law creating the board was challenged by the Consolidated Edison Company of New York city as a phase of proceedings for review of its special franchise assessment in the Bronx.

State Comptroller Frank C Moore is chairman of the Board of Equalization and Assessment, which is reviewing and revising state equalization rates.

Fishing Boat Is Sunk

New York, April 4 (AP)—A 45-foot excursion fishing boat was at the bottom of Long Island Sound today, after a collision with a 1,139-ton tanker. All but one of the fishing boat's five passengers and five crew members escaped with only a dunking. Edwin Berlin, 22, of the Bronx, suffered cuts and bruises. He and the others were picked up by the tanker and another craft. The coast guard said the fishing boat, "Claire," sank when it was rammed yesterday by the Sun Oil Company tanker, "Mystic Sun." No explanation was given for the accident, which occurred about 400 yards east of Throggs Neck light in the sound.

Davis Asks Privacy

New York, April 4 (AP)—After a four-day detention on Ellis Island, "World Citizen" Garry Davis was back on his native soil today, pleading for rest and privacy. The 28-year-old air force veteran, who spent the last two years in France crusading for world government, told newsmen on his release by immigration authorities yesterday: "Let me slip into oblivion. I really do not have anything to say. I'm here as a private person. I'm not seeking publicity. In fact, I think there has been entirely too much publicity." As he stepped ashore, Davis was met by his father, Bandleader Meyer Davis, and his 19-year-old sister, Marjorie. Young Davis gave up his U. S. citizenship in Paris two years ago to become what he called a "World Citizen No. 1."

Nobody Talked

Rockville Centre, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Mrs. Marian Attfield, the first census taker to complete her rounds in Nassau county, returned to headquarters here yesterday and told officials: "No one would talk." She explained that she found the Long Island area assigned to her contained nothing but a cemetery and an abandoned house.

Scientist Holds Out Cancer Cure Hope

Baltimore, April 4 (AP)—Cancer cure within 15 years? A Johns Hopkins Hospital scientist and leading authority held out that prospect today.

Dr. Perrin H. Long, professor of preventive medicine, predicted that medical men will gather enough information on cancer in the next 15 years to "alter completely the outlook" for anyone who develops the disease.

He declared at a luncheon touching off the annual Cancer Society campaign here yesterday that research in that field now stands about where the fight against infectious diseases stood in 1936.

Since then antibiotics such as penicillin, aureomycin, and the sulfa drugs have aided in practically wiping out "the fear of infectious diseases in this country," said Dr. Long, himself an antibiotics expert.

ROMANTIC PRICES

Television has thrown romance into the speculative arena. The glamour of this new industry has grasped the imagination of millions of Americans who can see in it the prospect of riding to riches on its economic potentialities.

Recently, the outstanding stock market strength has come from the television equities. Speculation in them has been rife. It is anybody's guess if they have gone too far and too fast. Maybe it will prove to be an industry of such growth and importance as to warrant very high prices for the shares. Time only will tell.

Currently the thing to remember about these speculative television stocks is that there has been blind and ill-advised buying of them. Whenever romance enters an economic field in this great country, one can expect a wave of speculative fervor. That is what America is experiencing now.

Many significant observations grow out of this speculative surge. One is that there is an abundance of money available for any type of security trading. When an enthusiastic speculator gets fired up by a risk-taking idea, he can find the dollars to back his judgment. The headwaiter of a very prominent New York city hotel who has been pleading poverty in recent months quickly produced $10,000 the other day when the television "bug" bit him.

Another observation is that if the lawmakers were to pass legislation that favored risk trading, billions upon billions of dollars would be flowing immediately. The United States' annual governmental budget, this year more than 40 billions, necessitating as it does the exaction of heavy, incentive-killing taxes, greatly helps in tying down a prosperity of some magnitude.

Then again, this romantic activity which causes great numbers of people to disregard sound investment procedures points up the need on the part of bankers, brokers and investment counselors to promote sound education. The headwaiter at the hotel whom I mentioned earlier found $10,000 that he wished to speculate with. It was dangerous business with him and, long before he got the speculative television "bug," somebody should have led him into conservative investment paths.

The millions of dollars that have lately spilled over into this comparatively new field, thereby causing a rash demand for unseasoned shares, should teach a lesson to those speculators who pay $5 to $100 a year for service aiming to help them "beat the market."

This is an unpredictable economic world. Nobody can tell with any degree of certainty what the stock market will do from year to year. Out of a clear sky comes a national demand for television shares. And America, filled with people who like romance with their risk-taking ventures, takes the bull by the horns. And up, up, up go the prices of the television shares.

Of course, there must be economic justification for such action. There is. Television sets are going into homes all over the country. But stock prices are out of hand. There are no solid statistical facts upon which present prices can logically rest.

When romance enters the economic price field, look out! For earnings and dividends are forgotten. Somebody always gets hurt.

It would be a good thing for the country if most of these careless speculators could have their buying propensities directed into sound investment channels. There is a very big job to be done right there.

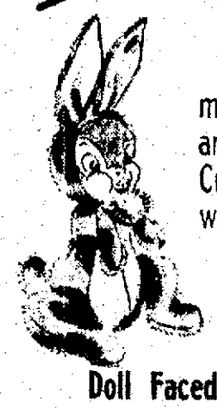

Statute Is Approved

Geneva, Switzerland, (AP)—The United Nations Trusteeship Council today formally approved a statute setting up an international regime for the Jerusalem area—a move bitterly opposed by both Israel and Hasemite Jordan. The U.N. has no actual power to enforce internationalization and Council Roger Garreau of France was instructed to seek the "full cooperation" of Israel and Jordan, who now occupy the divided Holy City. Garreau was instructed to report to the June council session on answers from Israel and Jordan.

Two Are Appointed

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James J. Lynch of New York city and Mrs. Clare Tree Major of Pleasantville are new members of the New York State Citizens Committee of one hundred for children and youth. They were appointed by Governor Dewey yesterday to fill vacancies on the committee, originally selected March 3. Msgr. Lynch is executive director of Catholic Charities of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York. Mrs. Major is director of the Clare Tree Major Theatre for Children. The committee is preparing a program that New York will submit to the mid-century White House conference on children and youth. The conference will be held in December in Washington.

Gabrielson Back From Trip, Reports West Is Alarmed

New York, April 4 (AP)—Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson, back from a western trip, says he found deep concern over the "schemes in Washington which have us drifting down the road to socialism."

He says he drew that conclusion from talks with G.O.P. chairmen and rank-and-file members of 18 states.

Interviewed yesterday upon his return from the two-week trip, he said "liberty versus socialism" is definitely the major issue of this year's Congress campaign.

Gabrielson said he does not believe that political attacks on Secretary of State Dean Acheson are harming this country's conduct of foreign affairs.

The G.O.P. chief said "we were weak," and "that's the reason the attacks began."

"I believe in bi-partisan foreign policy," Gabrielson said. "But this (Truman) administration won't work on a bi-partisan basis. The only fair thing is to attack the foreign policy of the administration when it is wrong.

"As I see it, the administration wants to formulate policy and have bi-partisan implementation of it. I think it should be bi-partisan in formulation as well in carrying it out."

Gabrielson said information gathered on his tour indicated the Republicans have a "very fair chance" of picking up Senate seats in the fall from the Democrats in California, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Illinois, Pennsylvania and two seats in Connecticut.

He said he is hopeful of electing a Republican over Democratic Senator Herbert H. Lehman in New York, also.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

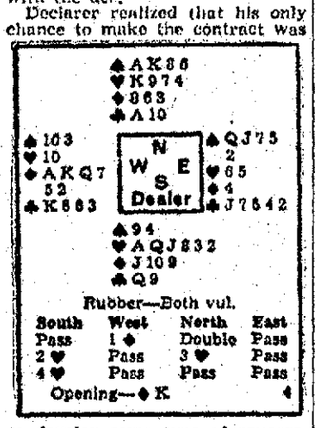

It Doesn't Matter Who You Squeeze

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

There is unfailing interest in the planning and execution of the squeeze play in its varied forms. In today's hand, before declarer could perfect the squeeze that enabled him to make his contract, it was necessary for him to transfer the squeeze from one opponent's hand to the other.

West won the first three tricks with the king, queen and ace of diamonds. East discarding the seven of spades and deuce of clubs. West now shifted to the ten of spades which was won in dummy with the ace.

Declarer realized that his only chance to make the contract was Rubber—Both vul.

4 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening—♦ K

to develop some type of squeeze. Up to this point the play seemed to indicate that the queen and jack of spades were in the East hand. West should hold the king of clubs to justify his opening bid.

If East held the jack of clubs, he might be squeezed between the spade and club suits; but the jack of clubs would have to be set up as the high card in the club suit, transferring the squeeze to East's hand.

Declarer played two rounds of trumps, ending in his own hand, then led the queen of clubs. West covered with the king and dummy's ace won. A heart was led from dummy and declarer ran off all of his remaining trumps, discarding a low spade and the ten of clubs from dummy.

East was pressed for a discard on the last trump. To protect the queen-jack of spades, he discarded the jack of clubs, hoping that his partner held the nine; but declarer cashed the nine of clubs and claimed the last trick with dummy's king of spades.

Bridge Speed Increased

New York, April 4 (AP)—Thirty miles per hour is too slow for modern traffic, the Port of New York Authority says, so the speed limit on four New York-New Jersey bridges has been upped to 40 m.p.h. The new speed limits, announced yesterday, will apply on the George Washington Bridge and three spans between Staten Island and New Jersey. The port authority has jurisdiction over the bridges.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Today's Business Mirror

New York, April 3 (AP)—Businessmen are just as concerned with the current counting of noses as politicians. But they aren't united in their estimation of how accurate an economic picture of the country the census takers are going to get from the way you answer their questions.

One view is that the three surveys now under way—population, housing and agriculture—will furnish businessmen "a veritable factual gold mine" for plotting sales campaigns and designing products, especially since it will reveal the distribution of income, and the realignment of shopping areas.

Another is that the census data on family income will "give a seriously distorted picture of the national market for commercial goods," and that businessmen had better stick to their own methods of ferreting out what you, their customer, want and can or will pay for.

Businessmen are paying an estimated $30 million a year to professional but non-government samplers of the public's tastes. Often part of their task is to find out tactfully the potential customer's spendable income. The market surveys by pollsters have gone booming right along, only momentarily set back on their heels by the 1948 election year fiasco in the side-line of guessing how you will vote.

Growing competition in most industries has spurred interest by the various companies in just what colored package you prefer on your breakfast food, or just what age group or sex does most of the buying of a particular item. With that information, company sales managers believe, they can aim their selling programs right at the richest buying segment.

Facts for Businessmen

When Uncle Sam takes the census every 10 years—ostensibly so he can redistribute the seats in the House of Representatives—he turns up a lot of facts that interest businessmen. This year he is also asking every fifth person about the family income. And here is where the dispute comes in. Today we have two views on that.

Dr. Robert J. McFall, who directed the first gathering of income statistics for the Bureau of Census in 1929, says the present plan won't work, and he lays the blame right at the door of the ladies.

"Housewives cannot and will not report a true picture on either employment or income," says the doctor. Also he contends that "income figures grossly distort the market picture in favor of big cities." He says that in the last retail census "the actual sales in New York state were only one-half of the income, whereas in some states about three-quarters of the income was available and was spent for retail trade.

The other side of the picture is given by Dr. Vergil D. Reed, associated director of research for J. Walter Thompson, Co., advertising agency. He has high hopes for getting a "factual gold mine" out of this census.

Will Furnish Index

The income data being gathered from the housewives Dr. McFall distrusts, will furnish "the most valuable economic index yet available by all geographic areas," Dr. Reed says. He especially likes two new slants the Census Bureau is taking.

"Millions of people living in unincorporated suburbs and unincorporated towns, and many of them located in dense metropolitan areas, have been unrealistically classified as rural residents," he says. "The Census Bureau has now mapped these places as 'urban fringes' around cities of 50,000 or over. Urban population will, of course, be greatly increased by this change of definition."

The other change Dr. Reed likes is the setting up of "standard metropolitan areas," consisting of an entire county or a group of two or more contiguous counties, "which are economically and socially integrated with the central city." Dr. Reed says that by giving income and other data on such an area as a unit, the bureau will be helping businessmen because "counties are usually sufficiently small areas for solving most marketing problems or building sales plans and laying out sales territories."

There you have it: Those who think the only reliable data on incomes is gathered by the tax collector; and those who think the present census will give businessmen an entirely new light on the markets they seek.

Burton Offered Post

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—John E. Burton, retiring state budget director, has been offered a post as vice-president at Cornell University, a well-informed Albany source reports. However, Cornell's acting president, Cornelis de Kiewiet, said last night he could not confirm the report. At Ithaca de Kiewiet said the university was considering creation of a top administrative post "involving some new type responsibilities." But designation of the new post has not been determined, de Kiewiet added. He reported a number of candidates were being considered.

Melish Loses His Second Fight to Prevent Ouster

New York, April 4 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. John Howard Melish has lost a second court fight against ouster from his Brooklyn pulpit in a left-right wing controversy.

The Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday upheld a decision that removal of the 75-year-old Protestant Episcopal clergyman by his bishop was legal under Church Law.

The Appeals Court did not issue an opinion when it unanimously upheld the decision of State Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink.

Dr. Melish, rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity for 45 years, was ousted a year ago in a controversy over his son and assistant rector, the Rev. William Howard Melish.

The Rt. Rev. James P. DeWolfe, bishop of the diocese of Long Island, removed the rector on application by the vestrymen. The vestrymen complained of the allegedly leftist activities of the son, and of the father's refusal to interfere with them.

The younger Melish is a leader in the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, which is on the Justice Department's list of subversive organizations. He lost his church post automatically when his father was forced into retirement.

A majority of the Holy Trinity parishioners have supported the Melishes.

The fact that the vote of the Appellate Division was unanimous makes it necessary for Dr. Melish to obtain the court's permission if he wants to take the case to the state's highest tribunal, the Court of Appeals.

The younger Melish said last night that he and his father had not decided whether to seek further appeal.

CLEAR THE TRACKS FOR SPRINGTIME—With a mighty "swoosh," a big rotary snow plow bucks its way to the cutskirts of West Yellowstone, Mont., in the yearly spring chore of opening the Union Pacific railroad's Yellowstone branch line. Here, Old Man Winter's last stand is a solid one. Twelve feet of snow were moved to clear the 56-mile rail route from Ashton, Ida., to Yellowstone National Park for the rush of summer vacationers.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—Families and houses are getting smaller today.

Drive through the suburbs of any city and you can see many 8-to-12 room homes of 50 to 75 years ago standing boarded up and empty. Some have been turned into duplexes or triplexes. And still others are being torn down to make way for new real estate developments with names like Quagmire Heights or Far Flung Hills.

I hate to see these fine old houses die. It is like watching a kindly elephant go down. Architecturally, with their sprawling porches and gingerbread wooden trims, they may have been monstrosities. But they have a virtue above ordinary art—they were lived in, and well-lived in, by sprawling happy families. Whatever they lacked in beauty as houses, they made up for in the love they held as homes.

The smaller, close-packed dwellings that are replacing them have many more conveniences. They do look neater, too, and they have gadgets in them no one even dreamed of in 1900. But they also often have the monotonous look of a row of cells in a beehive.

Privacy Was Idea

The idea used to be to build houses far enough apart so that each family would have some privacy, a lawn and a backyard with space to raise a few chickens in. Now a lot of folks appear to be uneasy unless their houses are close enough for them to hear what the neighbors are calling each other—or listening to on the radio.

And without getting maudlin about it, I sometimes feel sorry for these small families living in their small and sanitary houses. I guess this is progress, and you can't fight progress; but I can't, for the life of me, see just what the progress amounts to.

The two-kid families in the better-built mousetrap of today have no idea what fun it was to one of half a dozen to a dozen children in one of those big old rambling barns people used to call home.

BOYLE'S COL.—2— .. ..

There was plenty of room to play, indoors and out. The two rooms where the family gathered most often were the kitchen and the dining room. The dining room also was where dad held court. During the evening meal he would rule on all the day's infractions of tribal laws, with mother acting alternately as plaintiff and attorney for the defense, and decide on punishment. If it was a good meal, however, he tended to be lenient.

Always Room for Seclusion

In those old houses there was always a room in which a heartbroken culprit could go and cry by himself. But in large families, no matter how mean a thing you'd done, you were never completely alone. There was always a sister or brother to take your side.

There were plenty of feuds during the day, but generally they were all settled by bedtime. It wasn't often anyone went to sleep mad. That was one of the best things about large families—people learned to get along, to sacrifice for each other, to recognize one another's rights.

In big homes and big families there was no room for real selfishness. But there was endless room for loyalty and love and the development of understanding. There unpleasant duties—I don't think anyone ever wrote a poem on the pleasures of carrying out ashes from a coal furnace—but the duties were shared. Everything was shared; everybody felt necessary.

I was brought up in a large house as one of a large family. Perhaps it is because of this that, living in a city apartment as I do now and having no children, looking back makes the other way of life seem better. It never was lonely.

Hoover Report

Editor, The Freeman:

The time has come when every one, as a taxpayer, must stand up and be counted on the issues raised by the Hoover Report for Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Federal Government. It's your money that is being spent while we wait for the "blue print of better government" to be enacted by Congress.

As a former member of the House of Representatives, I know the delays and the pressures that are created whenever an effort is made to change and improve the operations of the Federal Government. I know how hard the pressure groups and the bureaucrats fight when they think a single one of their little domains is threatened in the interests of economy and effielency.

The Hoover Report means "better government at a better price," and the citizens of America have this opportunity . . . perhaps their last opportunity . . . to make themselves heard in demanding effective reorganization of their government. We must "save" instead of "spend."

The way to savings of between three and four billion dollars every year, and the elimination of wasteful spending of the taxpayers' money, has been shown by the Hoover Report.

Few people seem to realize that the average income tax paid by an individual is $349 every year, or that the national debt constitutes a $7,000 mortgage on every family, or that the present 42 billion dollar budget means that our Federal Government spends $79,900 every minute of every day.

I am confident that when the people become sufficiently aware, and aroused, over the need for reorganization that they will take the proper action. They can do this by:

One: Joining and supporting the New York State Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report, which has headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building, Syracuse, N. Y. It is a non-profit, non-partisan organization, supported by voluntary subscriptions.

Two: Writing their United States Senators and Representatives and telling them that they desire early, and favorable, action on the bills now before Congress, and on other bills as they are introduced to put the recommendations of the Hoover Commission into effect.

I have a high regard for the integrity and high purposes of our Senators and Representatives. They give good and patriotic service to their constituents and their country. They deserve your support in this most worthy effort. They want, and need, your help, as does President Truman who favors the Hoover Recommendations.

Certainly a penny postcard or a three-cent stamp, and a few minutes of time, are not too much to pay for reorganization and resulting economy that can mean saving as much as $100 per year for every taxpayer.

The time is now. It is later than you think. Write your Congressman today.

Sincerely,
NORMAN J. GOULD

Do You Remember

by
SOPHIE MILLER

Mrs. Edith Hendry's "The Historic Hudson, river of picturesque charm' booklet it seems was distributed by the Hudson River Day Line some 25 years ago, when Mrs Hendry acquired it together with many photographs she took of scenes along the route. I have mentioned before that Stephen J. Voorhies illustrated this booklet with historic pictures along the banks of the Hudson. Such a map, I am sure, youngsters taking up study of Henry Hudson and other historic figures would enjoy seeing It was prepared by Rand McNally and Co., New York.

There is. Hendrick Hudson's Half Moon (explored the Hudson in 1609) sailing up the river On the banks of Jersey, two little figures under which it states "Hamilton-Burr duel at Weehawken, July 11, 1804" On the other side of the river there is a sketch of Grant's Tomb under which is written, "Born 1822—died 1885" Below it is a man with a wooden leg and everyone can guess it's Peter Stuyvesant Surrenders New Amsterdam to British, 1664" No one is forgotten in the clever sketches, even the "Headless Horseman" rides again there and Ichabod Crane in "The Land of Irving's Legends" Here's one item I never heard about, "First salute to United States Flag, Dobbs Ferry May 8, 1783." Indians are seen through the trees, and British soldiers marching here and there with various explanations as we go up the river. For instance near Bear Mt. it says, "Captain Kidd's Ship believed scuttled here, 1698"

If youngsters were given a chance to recopy these simple sketches with explanations in no time they would enjoy learning the history that follows along our famous river At Poughkeepsie is pictured "Locust Grove" Home of S F B Morse, born 1791—died 1872, inventor of telegraph Also "Vassar College, first women's college, 1865" While on the other side of the river, our side, is "Home of John Burroughs, born 1837—died 1921," a small cottage nestling against the trees Then comes Kingston Point Park, nicely illustrated with flags and everything And also mentions: "Kingston thrice burned by Indians before the Revolution," giving a picture of an Indian in big feathers with a torch Up further on our side says "Center of ice industry before age of artificial ice" In back of which in the Catskill Mountain Region, Rip Van Winkle sleeps with the tiny dwarfs around him Nearer to Albany, at Barren Island it says, "Where formerly stood Castle of Killian Van Rensselaer, the Patron who compelled passing ships to pay tribute or be shot at Now a picnic resort"

Another item, a little past Albany says, 'Fort Crailo—Rensselaer Built 1640—'Yankee Doodle' composed here during French and Indian War' Just past Hudson there is a tiny whaling ship and says "Whaling industry once carried on from Hudson." Below Hudson is our little "Clermont" and says, "Fulton's Clermont launched in North Bay 1807" And further down "Collection of Central American relics at Cruger's Island" No doubt I have seen many of these spots many times yet never knew what they were. Now the youngsters won't even get a chance to see them from the river, for the boats will not come to Kingston or further up the river

They have pictures of their boats on the inside "The Hendrick Hudson, length 400 feet. Four decks, capacity 5,500" Then there's the Alexander Hamilton, length 350 feet Four decks Capacity 4,050 The Robert Fulton is another four decker, length 347, capacity 4,000 The DeWitt Clinton also a four decker and capacity 5,000 And I remember when these mammoth boats landed at Kingston Point and let out all their passengers for picnics together with the Kingstonians who were there in the park, made a lot of people.

Danger From Workers

Minneapolis (AP)- A breath of air so slight you could hardly detect it even by holding up a wet finger wafts radioactive dust particles away from workers in atomic-energy laboratories The controlled air movement over the special desks of such workers must be "marvelously precise," explained James S Locke of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company. "It must be strong enough to draw off fumes and dust but not strong enough to draw into the exhaust mechanism any of the material being tested." An electronic instrument achieves this balance through super-sensitive thermostats that control dampers in the ventilating system The thermostats create and control a breeze that is about as strong as the upward curling of smoke from a cigarette in an ash tray

WIDOW URGES

A widow asks me to print her letter: "Won't you please impress on people that it is not correct, as soon as a woman loses her husband, to begin calling her Mrs. Mary. Eventually she may even have to resort to the incorrect Mrs. Mary just because no one will know her by the name of Mrs. James . . . ."

According to best taste, the only excuse for calling a widow Mrs. Mary socially is because she herself prefers this name. Correctly, she is Mrs. James and if her visiting cards are printed Mrs. James and she herself signs Mrs. James in parentheses at the beginning of every signature, it is certainly unlikely that anyone will get into the habit of calling her Mrs. Mary.

Two Maids

Dear Mrs. Post: I know you don't think much of a bride's choosing two attendants of honor, but there's no way out of it. I'm having no other attendants save these two friends. As there is considerable difference in their heights, may I separate them and must they wear identical dresses?

Answer: The shorter one should walk first and the taller one in back and since they are not walking together their dresses do not have to match in color. They would, of course, be prettiest matching in style. The maid of honor's duties could be divided by letting one hold your bouquet and the other straighten your train.

Printed Thank-You Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: I received printed thank-you cards as a present, with my three maiden initials on these. I intend to use these to send for my wedding presents, but may I use them also for the presents that will have to be acknowledged after I'm married?

Answer: I hope you merely mean that the cards you are going to write your thank-you notes on are marked with your maiden initials, which you perfectly well may use. But if you mean to send out regular printed thanks, this would be both unappreciative and rude. A bride's thanks must be written by hand.

Models of formal notes, thank-you notes, and notes of condolence are given in Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 502, "Letter Writing." Other helpful information is also included. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Water Shortage

Singpore (AP) — Economy measures introduced by the Municipal Water Department have saved 700,000 gallons a day. But the water position still remains critical. Huge pipes convey water from the reservoir at Pontian, some 30 miles from Singapore, on the west coast of Johore. As part of the campaign to conserve fresh water, 300,000 gallons a day have been saved by substituting salt water for the flushing of drains, cleaning of markets and for general purposes.

New York (NEA)—The smartest kindergarten fashion-plates will be decked out for their Easter egg hunt in pint-sized versions of the high-styled togs their mothers will wear for promenading.

As popular with little girls as with their moms are the starchy white accets of collars and cuffs to set off suits and coats; pleats to flare a skirt or give freedom of motion in a straight-cut coat; and bloused belted jackets for suits.

Spring navy meets competition as a color favorite in pastels such as candy pink, apple green, robin's egg blue and dusty rose. Even checks and plaids are scaled down in size to make sporty togs for pram row.

Ensembled with several of the new fashions are matching felt bonnets and rollers.

For all their grown-up styling details, however, little fashions are sized with an eye to a youngster's rapidly growing figure. Deep hems and cuffs and ample side seams for letting out promise that clothes will keep a fitting pace with a little girl's growth.

Methodists Plan 'Golgotha' Film Wednesday Night

The new passion play, "Golgotha," will be shown in movie form Holy Wednesday, April 5, at 7 p. m., at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. The public is invited.

The movie, based upon both Freiburg and Oberammergau productions, was actually produced in Europe with English dialogue and sound track music depicting many famous scenes in the life, crucifixion and resurrection.

Reviewers who have seen the great movie have stated "a very gratifying departure from the usual movie presentation in churches is the high spiritual level and atmosphere of meditation and prayer established and maintained throughout the entire program which has been one of the fundamental objectives of the Religious and Educational Films of Los Angeles."

During the past few years the film has attracted immense audiences in many of the largest churches in the country before audiences of more than 1,000,000 people.

A silver offering will be taken Wednesday night to assist in paying expenses for the film.

Passion Play, Scenes From Christ's Life, Is Beautifully Staged at Old Dutch Church

In a pageant of glowing colors, rich costumes and organ-music joyful and melancholy by turns, the Passion Play—20 scenes from the life of Christ—was presented last night by a cast of more than 100 persons in the First Dutch Church.

About 400 persons were in the audience.

The spectacle was extremely well staged and moving, with the exquisite sweetness of Christ shining through the entire evening.

For the most part, the actors performed in pantomime, with narrators on the church balcony reading their lines. The names of the actors taking the various parts were withheld, wisely, so that their present-day personalities would not mar the mood of the performance. And in the full costumes which they were, with the long hair and beards of the period, few were recognizable.

The actor playing the part of the adult Jesus was admirably chosen. He captured the spirit of sweetness and sad gravity and his movements were extremely graceful. Another actor who was outstanding played the role of Herod, expressing the vitality of the man.

The scenes began with the nativity, and the young Jesus discovered by Joseph and Mary in the temple. A stage was set up in the chancel, and certain of the scenes took place there, with others being staged to the left, where tapestry and candles suggested a temple, and to the right, where evergreens suggested the outdoors. The aisles of the church were also used.

Several of the miracles were shown. Christ cured a paralytic carried on a stretcher, He brought back to life the son of the widow of Nain, He restored the sight of the blind man near Bethsaida, and He cleansed the 10 lepers.

One of the richest scenes in music and color was the one where Salome danced, and demanded—and received—the head of John the Baptist on a platter. The authenticity of the costumes, the gleam of the candelabra and drinking cups on the ornate table and the stirring music blended to make the scene dramatic.

Many of the most famous lines in the Bible were incorporated into the Passion Play. In the hills, Christ gives the Sermon on the Mount . . . "Woe to the rich," He says . . . "Judge not that you be not judged. . . ." And at Nazareth, where He is rejected—"A prophet is not without honor except in his own country." . . . And in the parable of the Pharisee and the tax collector—"He who exalts himself will be humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted." And at the Last Supper—"Love one another," and "I am the way and the truth and the light."

One of the most moving scenes showed Christ surrounded by children, blessing them, holding them, and foretelling the crucifixion.

The actual crucifixion was portrayed through music, and the last scene showed the tomb on Easter morning. The play ended with the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's Messiah.

Splendid costuming and excellent musical selections contributed a great deal to the success of the play which was seen by approximately 1,000 persons in its two performances, Sunday night and last night. The play was compiled from the New Testament by Mrs. Arthur Oudemool.—J. M.

Four counties have made definite plans to be represented in the Hudson Valley Apple Blossom Festival at Kingston May 6. They are Dutchess, Orange, Schenectady, Saratoga, and Ulster counties. In making this announcement today General Chairman Gerow Schoonmaker expressed the hope that at least two or three more counties would select queens and enter the final competitions.

Sorosis Club Told Kingston Is Ideal 'Convention City'

Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman, in a paper read by Mrs. Herbert Darrow, told a meeting of the Sorosis Club, Monday night, that the natural beauties of the Catskill Mountains, rivers and lakes have made Kingston an ideal "convention city."

Mrs. Heiselman, unable to attend the meeting because of illness, said in her paper that 59 per cent of the population of the United States lives in small communities, and described the importance of the Town Meeting in the early days of the nation, urging a return to smaller planning committees.

Kingston and Ulster county have had a great diversity of enterprise over their long years of history, the paper said.

"Hemlock tan bark, blue stone, brick making and many other trades have come and gone, and now, surprising as it may seem, the needle trades hold first place in the local economy," the paper said. "One hundred and fifty different useful articles are manufactured in and around Kingston."

Mrs. Heiselman's paper said that the summer hotel business had made Kingston a great shopping center for vacationists, and that skiing had improved winter business.

"For a good community, we must have good schools, roads, library, stores, and banking facilities," the paper continued. "Health and sanitation must be of the best. Kingston is famed for its splendid water supply, which is a great talking point in these days of shortages."

The paper praised Kingston's hospitals and Tumor Clinic and said the "County Health Department is a model for other counties."

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham, with Mrs. William McVey presiding. Mrs. Darrow, program chairman, announced that the next and final meeting of the season would be held at her home Monday, April 17. Annual reports will be read.

World's Record

by

JAMES H. WINTERS

Most people have no idea of the enormous number of pianos that are manufactured and sold in this country. During the month of November, 1949, the Wurlitzer factory established a world's record for pianos shipped in any one month—a total of 3,312.

Now—no inferior person or product ever set a world's record. In fact they have to be tops. That is what Wurlitzer pianos are—tops in quality, at a reasonable price. Speaking of price—there is another reason for public confidence in Wurlitzer products. Every three months printed retail price lists are sent to every Wurlitzer dealer. Every customer should be shown the official price list and then they know they are getting excellent value.

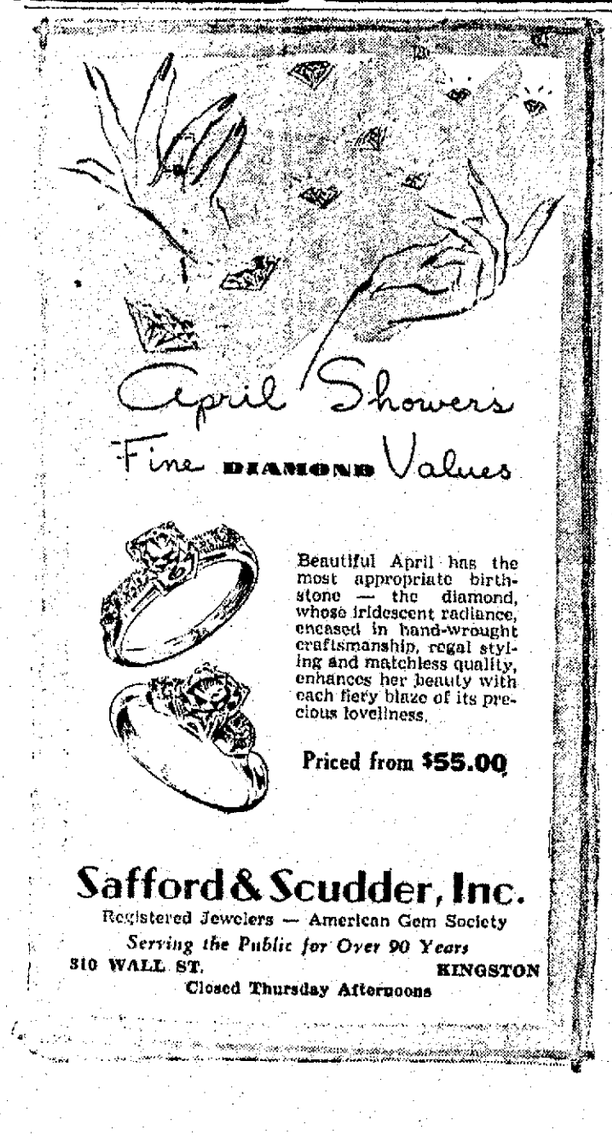

At 316 Fair street, at Winters Piano Service, you may see these official price lists and also many of the latest models. Drop in and see THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONS.

Sicklers Juniors and Newburgh Weiners in Y Tournament Finale

Locals Win Over Monticello, 67-50; Hilly City Five Stops Marlborough

Lou Schafer has come up with that tailor-made finale for the Y.M.C.A.-Mid-Hudson basketball tournament Wednesday night at the municipal auditorium.

It will be Sickler's Juniors of Kingston against the Newburgh Weiners at 9:15 p. m.—a renewal of the scholastic basketball rivalry between the two Hudson valley cities.

Sicklers stumbled briefly against the sharpshooting Monticello Legion in last night's semi-finals at the auditorium but came on to win 67 to 50.

The Weiners led all the way to eliminate the powerful Marlborough Legion, 63 to 56.

Thus the former high school greats of Kingston High and Newburgh Free Academy will lock in mortal combat before a packed house, despite the lateness of the season

Scheffel, Smith Star

Sickler's vaunted one-two punch—Ronnie Scheffel and Buddy Smith—overcame slow starts to overpower the speedy mountaineers who hit on a phenomenal percentage of shots in the first two periods.

Smith, completely shackled in the first quarter by Manchester, broke loose with 24 points, while Scheffel accounted for 20. These two did their heaviest damage in the second and third quarters.

Monticello hit "7 for 7" in the first period to roll up an 18-10 lead and their under-the-basket trickery made the Juniors look awkward at times. Scheffel picked up Kingston's only basket in the quarter.

The Monties clung to a ten-point lead in the early minutes of the second period and then the storm broke loose. Buddy Smith came to life with six baskets and Scheffel hit for a quartet of deuces. Bud Scheffel aided with a couple of neat set shots and at the half the Sicklers were ahead 36-33.

The Monties resorted to desperate shooting in the fourth period and some of the tries paid off, causing the Juniors a few anxious moments.

While R. Scheffel and Smith were rolling up 44 points, George Holstein and Bud Scheffel shared 16 for Sicklers. Sturdevant emerged as Monticello's top scorer with 15 points, while Schwartz, a future All-DUSO prospect, tossed in 11 and Manchester had 10.

O'Connor Hits 19

Big Ed O'Connor, the St. Patrick's Academy scoring genius, paced Weiners with 19 points in their impressive triumph over Marlborough. Dashing Dick Tyler was back at center and scored 15 points and Fritz Mueller, one of Orange county's veteran stars, had 12.

Best scorer in the game that featured tight, possession basketball was Tom Casey of Marlborough with 20 points. Tim Murphy poured in 17 markers for Marlborough.

The Weiners led 20-11 at the quarter and were in front 36-26 at halftime.

Marlborough and Monticello meet in the consolation game for third and fourth place trophies in the 7:45 p. m. preliminary on Wednesday.

Jimmy Riehl, Sickler guard who was removed from the contest with an ankle injury last night, is expected to be back in the lineup for the championship game.

SAFE WITH A TRIPLE

New York Yankees Outfielder Jackie Jensen is safe sliding into third base after hitting fence in right field for a triple during game with Cincinnati Reds at Tampa, Fla. Reds' Ron Northey's throw was relayed to Third Baseman Bobby Adams (12) too late to get the runner in eighth inning. Jensen, a Yankee rookie, hit a single, triple and home run during game but Yankees lost, 6-5. (AP Wirephoto)

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

San Antonio, Tex., April 4 (AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the New York Giants, says he isn't worried about the performances turned in by his pitchers. Not yet, anyway.

"But if it keeps up, then I will really worry," he said after three pitchers were bombed for 31 runs in three games.

"The fellows are throwing hard and their arms are loose. That's all I'm interested in."

Durocher's hurlers lost a 5-3 decision to Cleveland yesterday.

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 4 (AP)—Jackie Jensen, bonus beauty from the University of California, has begun to make the New York Yankees' brain trust sit up and take notice.

A mediocre .196 hitter in 10 previous contests, Jensen cracked out a single, triple and home run run yesterday against the Cincinnati Reds. He scored three times.

In addition, the home run gave Jackie the club lead with four. Cincinnati won the game, 6 to 5.

Houston, Tex., April 4 (AP)—It appears either Gene Hermanski or George Shuba will be in left field for the Brooklyn Dodgers on opening day.

Right now, Shuba is getting more regular duty than Hermanski, the Brooks' left fielder last season. Shuba has been hitting hard, but his ability to pull the ball that endears him with Manager Burt Shotton. A lefthanded hitter, he could put Ebbets Field's short right field wall to good use this summer.

Hermanski, who hit .299 last season, has a stronger arm. Otherwise, both are on a par defensively.

San Antonio, Tex., April 4 (AP)—Pitcher Early Wynn and second baseman Joe Gordon, two oldtimers, have been performing for the Cleveland Indians on the grapefruit grind with the zeal of a couple of rookies trying to make the team.

Wynn, a big righthander who is 30 and has been in the majors since 1941, has won five starts and hasn't lost one. Yesterday at El Paso he allowed the New York Giants only six hits in seven innings as the Tribe won 5-3.

The 35-year-old Gordon, who came into the bigtime 12 years ago, clouted a 365-foot homer over the centerfield wall with a man aboard. He had a homer Sunday, too, and his total of five is only two less than that of Luke Easter who's been at bat about twice as often.

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 4 (AP)—Outfielder Harold Stamey, bonus played drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals from the Philadelphia Phils' organization last fall, has been claimed on waivers from Cincinnati.

He is assigned to the Reds' South Atlantic team at Columbia, S. C.

Lakeland, Fla., April 4 (AP)—It looks now as though Hal Newhouser's mysterious arm trouble may prevent him from pitching the Detroit Tigers' American League opener.

The opener—against Cleveland April 18 this year—has been Hal's private property in the past.

However, Manager Red Rolfe is figuring on Freddie Hutchinson or Art Houtteman. He says "it looks like one or the other."

Liberty Kegler Shoots Highest Score in Tourney

Alma Furman's 242 Top Solo To Date

Alma Furman, anchor of the Class B. RuBees team of Liberty, rolled 242 in the team event Sunday night, for the highest individual score to date in the state tournament at the Bowlatorium.

She rolled the 242 in the middle set and had other scores of 143 and 121 for a 506 series as her team posted 2197.

Ruth Karitis, anchor of the Highland Falls Charlie's Hilltop, shot 562, one of the best triples compiled in team competition with 221-183-159. Her squad posted 2286, well off the pace in the A division.

Scores rolled by Hudson valley and regional teams follow:

Class A — Charlie's Hilltop, Highland Falls, 2286; Hallenbeck Jewels, Catskill, 2281, Anchor Inn, Poughkeepsie, 2247.

Class B—RuBees, Liberty, 2197; Birmingham Fuel, Liberty, 2137; Paul's Five, Poughkeepsie, 2137; Berea Coal Co., Walden, 2123; Westchester Asphalt, Cairo, 2110.

Class C — Sun-Gas, Liberty, 2139; Keil's of Hudson, 2050; Schipp's Diner, Ellenville, 2007; Five Star Beef, Cairo, 1989; International Harvester, Middletown, 1986; Mar-Bet Cleaners, Middletown, 1968; Spence Engineering, Walden, 1965; W. Bogardus & Son, Catskill, 1942; Charlie's, Ellenville, 1938; Sinicks, Ellenville, 1910, Jolly Mixed, Hudson, 1877.

MAIN EVENT—Luke Sewell is a serious manager watching Ewell Blackwell warm up. The towering right-hander means so much to the National League, let alone the Reds.

Colonials Sign New Pitcher

John Manopoli, a 19-year-old right hander who racked up a 2.79 earned run average with Pittsburgh of the K-O-M Class D League in 1948, has been added to the Kingston Colonial roster, Manager Emil Gall said today.

Gall was enthusiastic about the New York youngster, who has been in OB for two years, and said he rolled up 125 strikeouts, while winning 12 and losing 8 in the K-O-M League (Kansas-Oklahoma-Missouri).

Manopoli was in the St. Louis Brown chain for a year and a half. He played with Pittsburgh in 1948; was with Gloversville in the Canadian-American League for a month in 1949 and then finished out the season with Olean of the Pony League.

Famous Trout Habitats Few Left For Anglers

Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks' bill to prohibit any municipality from tapping the Beaverkill and Willowemoc streams for municipal water supply purposes, now awaiting Governor Dewey's action, is being watched with great interest by sportsmen and other residents of Ulster, Delaware and Sullivan counties.

The trout streams are among the most famous in the world.

Senator Wicks' bill is aimed specifically at the City of New York which has taken over five of seven streams that once ranked with the best in the country.

Only the Beaverkill and Willowemoc remain and New York city has given indications in recent years that it has designs on those two trout paradises.

"The Beaverkill and Willowemoc are renowned for trout fishing the world over," Senator Wicks said. "They attract thousands of sportsmen to this area each year and any tampering with these streams could seriously affect the livelihood of hundreds of our residents who depend for their income on sportsmen who fish these streams."

The bill was introduced by Senator Wicks only two weeks before the end of the 1950 session of the Legislature. Passed by both houses, it was among the 1,024 bills sent to the Governor and which must be acted upon within 30 days after the close of the session.

The action of Senator Wicks, which was taken on his own initiative as a result of testimony given before the Joint Legislative Committee on River Regulating and his own personal conviction that these two great trout streams should be left in their natural state, has been praised by sportsmen's groups and inhabitants of the regions through which the streams flow.

Referring to a bill introduced in the legislature which would have absolved New York city from liability for damages incurred in its proposed rain-making operations, Senator Wicks said the bill was killed in committee and was not reported out for a vote.

"The interests of the people in my district must be protected," Senator Wicks stated, "and I intend to do everything in my power to see that they are safeguarded."

Augusta, Ga., April 4 (AP)—With the likes of Hogan, Snead, Middlecoff, Palmer and Burke around, the picking of a Masters golf tournament winner is an order only the lucky and bold can fill.

But the picking of a winning score is a different matter. A duffer should be able to guess close.

Unless the field is fired up Thursday through Sunday, or unless its chilly, a 280 to 282 for 72 holes should win. The average winning score for 13 Masters lies between the two—281 and 9/13 strokes.

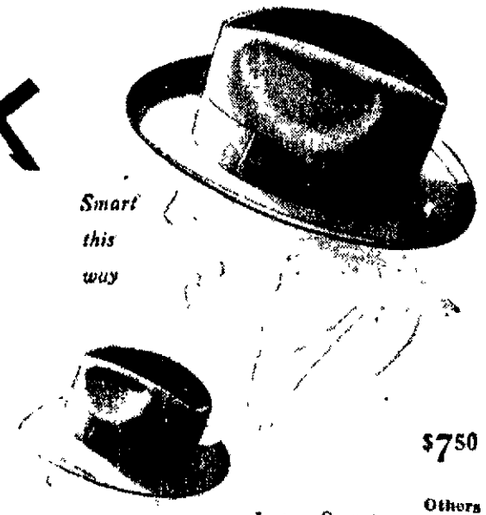

The Masters has one of the smallest, possibly the smallest, score spread of any big tournament.

Record rounds were 279 by Ralph Guldahl in 1939 and Claude Harmon in 1948. The highest scores were 285s by Henry Picard in 1938 and Horton Smith in 1936.

Sam Snead's 282 won last year. The same number won for Herman Keiser in 1946 and Gene Sarazen in 1935. Jimmy Demaret won with 281 in 1947.

PGA Ousts Schneiter

Chicago, April 4 (AP)—The Professional Golf Association awaited today the aftermath of its firing of George Schneiter as tournament bureau manager. Open revolt of headline golfers from the parent organization may follow in the wake.

Schneiter came to Chicago yesterday as a player-representative to meet with PGA officials including Joe Novak, president; Horton Smith, secretary; Tom Crane, executive secretary; Harry Moffitt of Toledo, treasurer, and several members of the advisory tournament sponsors' group.

Schneiter was fired outright at the close of the session, reportedly because he negotiated the signing of contracts for the summer tourney tour without complete PGA authorization. Officials said he was given a chance to resign but apparently Schneiter, a playing pro from Utah who was named bureau manager in 1946 succeeding Freddie Corcoran, stood his ground until being ousted without reservation.

Future Uncertain

"At least the pressure is off," Schneiter explained. "I am no longer an employee (at $10,000 per year) of the PGA. I can now stand as representative of the tournament players. My dismissal is not a satisfactory answer to the player problems."

It is questionable today just how much force Schneiter has behind him. The test is yet to come. As player-representative, he presumably is backed by a "governing body" of stars who seek legislative power in tournament golf through sponsorship contract signing, control of funds and other administrative functions now dictated by PGA delegates, consisting of country club pros representing three districts in the organization.

The playing group includes virtually all the title and money winning big shots of the game—Sam Snead, Lloyd Mangrum, Ben Hogan, Car Middlecoff, Clayton Heafner, Johnny Palmer and others.

Frankie Frisch High On Rookie Pitcher

Corpus Christie, Tex., April 4 (AP)—For a fellow who has allowed seven runs on 10 walks and two hits in only three and 2/3 innings, rookie pitcher Bob Kelly ranks unusually high with Manager Frankie Frisch of the Chicago Cubs.

Kelly, up from Los Angeles where he compiled a 9-16 record last season, has come up for consideration of the Cleveland Indians.

Frisch, in a talk with Tribe Chief Lou Boudreau, said he thought the 22-year old right-hander was worth at least $175,000.

"If you can get him out of your league, you've got a deal," snapped Boudreau. "He has one of the best overhand curve balls I've seen in a long time. Bob Lemon told me Kelly's curve ball just seemed to explode-dropping right out of sight."

French Boxers Score Handily

Villemain, Dauthuille Hot After La Motta

Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—Jake LaMotta better dust off his French dictionary—the boys from Paris are gunning for his middleweight crown.

The boys—better known as Robert Villemain and Laurent Dauthuille—registered impressive wins last night, one in Philadelphia and the other in Pittsburgh.

Villemain, who has made it known—in French, of course—that he intends to carry LaMotta's title back to Paris, took a unanimous 10-round decision from Philadelphia's Otis Graham.

Dauthuille, blond puncher who has been working out of Montreal since he came to this side of the Atlantic last year, kayoed Pittsburgh's Charley (Zivic) Affif in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-rounder.

Villemain, who weighed 158½ to Graham's 156, gave the Philadelphia negro a boxing lesson with his weaving, bobbing style.

Only Villemain's lack of punching power kept the fight going the distance.

At the start, the Frenchman jabbed Graham over the ring. Then, Villemain changed his attack, feinting Graham out of position time and again before pounding him with both hands as he tried to recover.

Dauthuille showed the same sort of mastery over Affif, although the Pittsburgh middleweight displayed some form in rocking the Frenchman with a sharp left in the fourth round.

Dauthuille came back stronger than ever, however, and dropped Affif just before the bell. In the seventh and eighth, Affif exploded with a flurry of punches, but Dauthuille fought off the attack.

In the ninth, the Parisian dropped Affif for a nine count and then scored the knockout with a left and right.

Dauthuille weighed 157½ and Affif 160.

Minor Changes In State Bowling

The first Monday squad in the state women's bowling tournament produced only minor changes on the standing board yesterday at the Bowlatorium.

Edith Whorral and Betty Timmerman of Syracuse rolled into third place in Class C doubles with 896. Helen Davis of Amsterdam shot 522 for seventh place in the Class B, Singles, while P. Mader and N. Farhood of Brooklyn, rolled 1002 for fourth spot in B doubles.

M. Powers and R. Audet of Troy tied for fourth place in B doubles with 972.

Marie Raisch, Staten Island veteran who has two state all-events titles to her credit, and her partner, Molly Ruocco, totalled 1019 in the A doubles. Mrs. Raisch could do no better than 490 in the singles.

Among the better A singles scores were: Ruth Dockster, Staten Island, 510; Mary Bredice, Syracuse, 528; Martha Adamski, Schenectady, 521, Ruth Garelick, Syracuse, 500. Class B singles: Jean Anderson, Syracuse, 512; and Emelia Biront, Syracuse, 506.

Mary Delco, a Class C bowler from Clyde, N. Y., shot 221 for the best single of the day.

Mae Martalto and Helen Trowbridge, of Kingston, shot 823 in Class B, doubles. Mrs. Martalto rolled 394 in the singles and Mrs. Trowbridge had 398.

Another Kingston tandem, Ann Berardi and Ann Manfro, totalled 745 in C doubles. Berardi posted 406 and Manfro 366 in singles.

May Use Television

Boston, April 4 (AP)—Television may be used to combat the expounding of un-American doctrines on Boston common. The City Council figures that televised baseball and other events would take the play away from soap box orators. They are now allowed to set forth their theories from Parkman Bandstand without police interruptions. "A television program," Councilor Francis P. Tracey said, "would eliminate this condition in an effective and attractive American way." The council voted yesterday to ask the park commissioner to install a big screen at the bandstand.

Stresses Low Cost Of Administrative End of VA Office

John E. Delehanty, local Veterans Administration representative, said today that more than 86 per cent of the estimated VA budget for the fiscal year 1950 will go directly to veterans and their families in the form of cash payments. He cited this as a little known fact about the annual VA appropriation, which in recent years has approximated six billion dollars.

Quoting information he received yesterday from VA headquarters in Washington, Delehanty said that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1949, administrative costs of the Veterans Administration amounted to only 5.09 per cent of its total expenditures. During the same period, he reported, indirect benefits provided veterans by Congress amounted to 21.69 per cent of total VA expenditures. These indirect benefits include payments made to schools for tuition of veteran students, burial benefits, medical, hospital, and domiciliary care for veterans.

The local VA official said all of the benefits under the programs administered by the agency are ordered by law. Direct cash benefits are ordered to be made available to veterans or their dependents who qualify under the provisions of the various laws involved.

GRANDAD OF THE FLYING SAUCERS?

The U. S. News and World Report for April 7 has published this picture with an article that says there is competent evidence that flying saucers are real aircraft of revolutionary design, developed in the United States. This 1/3 scale model built in 1942 is shown mounted for wind tunnel tests at the Langley, Va., laboratory of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. It was driven by two piston engines. Relative size of this model can be deduced from normal stairway at right. (A P. Wirephoto)

U. S. Navy Denies Report on Saucers

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The Navy says, in comment on the latest flying saucer report (1) It has not developed any pancake-shaped jet planes and (2) it is not experimenting with any saucer-shaped missile.

In fact, the department reported through a spokesman, the nearest thing to a flying saucer it ever developed has not flown since 1947.

The spokesman was commenting last night on an article in U. S. news and world report which said engineers have concluded that the oft-reported saucers are jet-powered planes of a new design developed by the Navy.

Reveal Plot on Nehru

Bombay, India, April 4 (AP)—Government officials indicated today they had smashed a plot to assassinate Prime Minister Jawaharal Nehru with the arrest of 14 leaders of Hindu extremist organizations. Some of those arrested had been held in the investigation of the slaying in 1948 of Mohandas Gandhi, India's man of peace and close associate of Nehru. The plot was believed to have been conceived out of extremist exasperation at Nehru's refusal to heed demands for war against neighboring Pakistan because of reported mistreatment of Hindus in Pakistan's East Bengal section.

Bixbys Will Fly To San Francisco

Calcutta, India, April 4 (AP)—The globe-circling Bixbys—stopped by engine trouble in their attempt to beat the round-the-world flight record held by the late Bill Odom—are going to fly on to San Francisco anyhow.

The aerial husband-and-wife team, Bob and Dianna, hid their disappointment behind philosophic smiles today as they were told it would be several days before spare parts could be flown here for the needed repairs on their twin-engine Mosquito, the Huntress II.

They were well over half their journey—11,836 miles—when they were forced to turn back at Calcutta's Dumdum air field yesterday morning. And they were right on the schedule they had set for topping Odom's 1947 speed record of 73 hours.

The engine trouble began, Bob said, when their converted British bomber was up 4,000 feet. Gaskets in the cooling systems of the left engine burst and the plane was showered with anti-freeze fluid.

"We knew we had to turn back," Bob said, adding that their first reaction was to "get out of there as fast as possible and back to good earth."

Dianna was near tears when the plane landed back at Dumdum. But Bob comforted her with the promise that "we can try again."

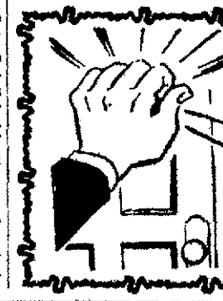

The couple, operators of charter cargo planes at Santa Paula, Calif., plan to hop next to Tokyo, across Red China, then to Midway Island, and on to San Francisco.

New Haven, Conn. — Johnny Breeze, 128½, Paterson, N. J., outpointed Jim Healy, 132, Brooklyn (8).

Checkup Is Ordered

Washington, April 4 (AP)—A congressional checkup was ordered today into how the munitions board is getting along in stockpiling materials "strategic and critical" to the national defense. Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee named an eight-man subcommittee, headed by Rep. Durham (D-N.C.), to make the investigation. Durham estimated roughly that the munitions board has had some $1,400,000,000 available for its operations.

Case Goes to Jury

Iowa City, Ia., April 4 (AP)—A jury of four women and eight men at 11:02 a. m. (EST) today began its deliberations on the fate of Robert E. Bednasek who is accused of strangling a pretty University of Iowa coed.

Night Pictures Best

It is easier to photograph the Pavlof volcanoes, on the Alaskan peninsula, at night than in the daytime. Fog obscures them in daylight, but at night, with the aid of the midnight sun, visibility is fairly good.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 4 (AP)—A whirl of opening activity put the stock market on a rising track today but only small progress was made.

Most price changes were upward, with gains for the most part less than a point. Many leaders, at the same time, showed no variation at all and a small number backed down a little.

Some of yesterday's buoyant rails, for instance, were deflated by profit taking sales.

Business at the start was so fast that for a minute or so the high-speed tacker tape failed to keep up with reporting floor transactions. Trading enthusiasm later cooled considerably.

The early surge of trade was evidently a spillover from Monday when last-hour demand for railroad stocks helped lift the entire market.

Chrysler was an outstanding weak spot dropping more than a point at one time. A strike against the company is now dragging into its third month. General Motors also slipped.

Zebras Are Lazy

Naibi, Kenyo Colony (AP)—You can tell a zebra by his stripes—and they mean he's lazy. Wild game authorities here say that though the zebra in many physical ways resembles a horse or mule, he has proven worthless as a domestic beast. A zebra can be harnessed, they say, but just can't be induced to pull a load. He has no heart for the task and gives up without trying. Thousands of zebras are running around free in the African wilds, unwanted by humans because of this lazy streak.

SUB-HUNTING DESTROYER CHECKS GUNS

Crew members of U.S.S. Colahan check a 20mm dual mount gun as craft speeds full draft en route to a point off coast 280 miles north of San Francisco in search of an unidentified submarine reported in the area. Destroyer returned after four-day search and Capt. J. A. Hollbrook, skipper, reported he believed that sound contact was made with one or more subs during the search. (A.P. Wirephoto)

Navy search planes are combing the area around Arguello light station (1) where Coast Guardsmen reported seeing a surfaced submarine eight miles offshore. Catalina Harbor (2) is where convicted traitor Theodore Donay disappeared after renting a motorboat and sailing seaward. Earlier, subs had been reported sighted 40 miles off Cape Mendocino (3) and off Eureka (4).

Navy Not Upset

WSF said search was being suspended "pending further developments."

With possibly one exception all the submarines reported sighted have been well beyond the three-mile limit. Ships of any nationality—warships as well as merchantment — may operate freely beyond territorial waters.

The one exception was mentioned in a resume of submarine reports issued yesterday by the WSF. Civilians at Yaquina, Ore., reported seeing what they thought was a submarine a quarter to a half mile off shore at 5 p. m. Sunday.

Hearings Are Complete

New York, April 4 (AP) — The New York State Public Service Commission has completed hearings on the petition of the New York Telephone Company for permanent rate increases in the state. After the final session yesterday, P.S.C. Chairman Benjamin F. Feinberg said it probably would take the commission about six months to reach a decision. There are 10,000 pages of testimony to study. The company wants boosts on local, toll and coin box rates that would add an additional $35,000,000 to the public's current telephone bill within the state. Affected would be between 3,000,000 and 3,500,000 subscribers who use 4,800,000 telephones.

The sale disposed of 66 head of Aberdeen Angus cattle for $146,000, an average of $2,216 a head. The young bull, Ankonian 3219, was sold to George Cooper, of Run Acre Farm, Madison, Conn. The bull was sired by Ileemere, 1032, Ankony Farms international grand champion Angus bull.

Connelly Predicts

transfer the investigation to a 12-member non-partisan commission appointed by the Senate, the House and the President.

Tydings, Connally, and Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, said they think it would be impractical to shut up shop on the committee's inquiry now and turn the matter over to a commission.

"I think Senator Lodge should have made that proposal when the matter first was up in the Senate —not when we are half way through the investigation," Tydings said.

McCarthy backed the Lodge proposal, despite the fact that Lodge told the Senate yesterday in making it that thus far there had been no proof of any of McCarthy's charges. This apparently included the accusations against Lattimore, on which McCarthy has said he is willing to let his whole case stand or fall.

Recovering from a sinus operation at Bethesda, Md., navala hospital, McCarthy told a reporter via his secretary:

"Anything would be better than the committee we now have."

Vols Will Learn New Fire Methods

New methods and techniques in fighting fires will be stressed in the state training schools for volunteer firemen of the county during this month, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, chairman of the Ulster County Fire Training Advisory Council, announced today.

Basic, intermediate and advanced courses will be given, and the schooling applies to all volunteer firemen in the county.

The schools will be held in four battalions, each with a coordinator. The groups will be located in sections of the county for convenience of the men and to reduce travel expenses.

Arthur Chipp of Kerhonkson is chief coordinator, and Deputy Chiefs Harold Sanford and James Brett, of Kingston are the instructors.

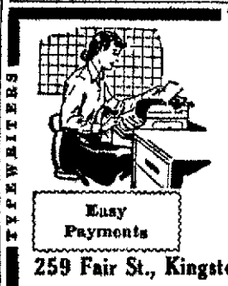

The objective of the schools is coordination of methods in combatting fire so that each company will have the same fire-fighting procedure. It is known as the State Mutual Aid Plan and helps one group to adopt the methods of the other
